

HARD COAL PARLEY BREAKS UP

CLEANING OF RESERVOIRS IS DISCUSSED

City Commission Authorizes Mayor to Negotiate With Water Company Officials

MANY PEOPLE ARE SICK

Reported Numerous Workmen Off Duty on City Jobs Because of City Water

The city commission of Bismarck in session last night, discussed the water situation with respect to the dirty reservoirs and the consequent wave of sickness which has spread over the city in the last two or three weeks. Mayor Lehner was given authority to take the matter up with representatives of the Bismarck Water Supply Company in an effort to make possible the cleaning of the reservoirs.

The question was raised by C. L. Hanson, who volunteered information to the commission that the reservoirs are in a deplorable condition. There is so much mud in them, he said, that it virtually overflows into the mains. There has been no chlorine put in the water for many weeks, he asserted, which would mean that raw Missouri river water with the addition of mud gathered in the reservoirs is being turned into the mains for people to drink.

Some members of the commission felt it was none of their business to clean the reservoirs, since they did not own the property and they would have no authority for doing so. They also said that if the railroad commission was appealed to and that body sought to enforce cleaning of the reservoirs, the Bismarck Water Company could appeal and tie up the matter until the time for the city to take over the plant.

Reports were made that many people are sick from the water. Hanson said that many men working on the new filtration plant were sick and Commissioner Thompson, who urged action, said that half the crew working on the new school house in the western part of the city was sick.

There was discussion as to the cost of cleaning the reservoirs. The water company figures were that it cost about $700 to clean the three. Other estimates ranged down to $250 to $300.

Mr. Hanson asserted none of the three reservoirs had been cleaned since last August and that one of them hadn't been cleaned for three years. He said the reservoirs were full of mud. On suggestion advanced that while it takes considerable time to clean the reservoirs, the mud valves might be opened and the worst of the mud drawn off quickly. City Engineer Atkinson reported that the fact that the new 16-inch main trench is open need not stop the cleaning of the reservoirs.

Hanson declared a carp was found in the swimming pool the other day, presumably pumped from the river through the water mains.

Two weeks ago the proposition of cleaning the reservoirs was up. Attorneys for the water company, since it was not then known what the result of the bond issue decision would be, suggested that the city and company split the expense. This was transmitted to George B. Flannery, president of the company at St. Paul. He reported that local officers of the water company vetoed the arrangement and their veto was accepted.

Meanwhile the injunction of the city health officer that water be boiled continues.

The commission, in its meeting last night, also accepted the resignation of J. R. Falconer, of the fire department, and appointed William McCormick in his place, effective September 1. Fire Commissioner Hensler said he would ask that wages for men on duty 12 hours a day at the fire hall be increased beyond the $100 a month salary now paid.

Complaints made by Nonpartisans in Burleigh county against the method of call of a state convention in Bismarck, October 10, have been added to by John Andrews in "The Progressive," weekly newspaper at Fargo.

Mr. Andrews is very strong in his statements, and heads the article attacking the call of Chairman W. J. Church as follows: "Call evidences boss trickery."

CRITICIZES LEAGUE CALL OF CONVENTION

He said that Mr. Church called the same old delegates to sit in the convention.

"It is such a rotten trick that it had to be passed over in silence," says "The Progressive."

"If permitted and no protest is raised, it will mean that the bosses behind Church will control the convention."

CAPITOL IS CALLED HULK BY WRITER

Mentions Beede's Epic on The Indian Massacre as Only Good Literature

DISCUSSES NO. DAKOTA

"Yet in all its boasted State pride, notwithstanding its readiness to spend money on futile impeachment trials, on all sorts of elections and primaries, on new governmental experiments, North Dakota never has found the energy or wherewithal to build a decent State capitol," says Robert George Peterson in an article "These United States—North Dakota: A Twentieth-Century Valley Forge," in "The Nation" of August 8.

A number of other enlightening and equally interesting tidbits may be found in the article which reviews the entire history of the state from the time of its settlement by "Norwegian" cousins of the "Swedes" residing in Minnesota. The state's prominent men who have had so much to do in the upbuilding of the state—Alex McKenzie, James J. Hill, "North Dakota's patron saint," and various others are reviewed in their relation to the state's progress.

In continuing his words about the capitol the author says: "The nondescript hulk it calls a capitol unobtrusively is shown to Bismarck visitors as one of the sights. And it is one. Although its location is superb on an ideal spot overlooking the town and the bald hills beyond the Missouri, it is a ramshackle, pieced-together arrangement, constructed in three sections, each of a different kind and color of brick—the front dark red, the middle wing vivid yellow, and the rear white. On all sides handsome new State capitols have been erected but North Dakota makes no effort to replace this architectural monstrosity. On its sloping grounds are the log cabin Roosevelt occupied during his three years at Medora, and a bronze statue the North Dakota women have reared to the Indian 'bird woman' who guided Lewis and Clark across the Rockies.

"Educationally North Dakota is quite abreast of other states. Its percentage of illiterates is surprisingly small. Except for a meretricious but unknown epic drama of its famous Indian massacre by Aaron McGuffey Beede, an old Episcopal missionary among the Sioux, so far it hasn't figured much in literature and produced no distinctive literary geniuses of national renown—unless the monthly preambles of Sam Clark in his Jim Jam Jesus could possibly rank him as a litterateur."

Another interesting bit of the author's information in regard to the governmental situation in North Dakota is the statement that while Bismarck has been the capital where the governor resides and the legislature convenes the real seat of government has been located in St. Paul and Minneapolis, where James J. Hill and other "overlords" resided.

Something too of the Nonpartisan League movement, the scenery of the state, the Bad Lands, the climate, and other important features of the state's beauty as well as its physical conditions are given.

DROWNING VICTIM
Reeder, N. D., Aug. 21.—Taken with cramps while swimming in the Cedar river, near here, Erling A. Kjar, son of Mr. and Mrs. K. O. Kjar, was drowned last Sunday. Several companions, who were unable to swim to his rescue, witnessed the accident.

Erling, who was 22 years of age, had come to this country with his parents in 1905 from Norway, and settled in Grand Forks county, later moving to Adams county. He had taken courses at the state agricultural college and had graduated from the engineering department.

CROSS NATION AIR MAIL IS BEGUN TODAY

Week's Test of Daily New York-San Francisco Mail Will Be Made

Night Flying Scheduled on Only Stretch — Flying Time Figured 30 Hours

New York, Aug. 21.—(By the Associated Press)—Loaded with 24,000 complimentary stamps and weighing 575 pounds and a few first edition daily newspapers, one of five mail airplanes was ready today to inaugurate a five-day test aerial express service—a transcontinental mail service, the success of which will determine its permanency.

Regardless of weather conditions a plane will hop off daily from New York and San Francisco daily until Saturday. At 11 a. m. Pilot C. Eugene Johnson, in spite of the fact that late last night he suffered a severe bronchial attack with high temperature, was to take flight from Hazelhurst field, Long Island, on the first westward flight west. Johnson will pass a plane in mid-continent.

The plane leaving here tomorrow will be piloted by Shirley Shork, that on Thursday by W. L. Smith; Friday C. F. Collins and Saturday Brooke Pearson.

Cleveland, Chicago, Omaha, Shenoan, Salt Lake City and Reno are designated as stopping points for the mail plane to re-fuel ship, pilots, machine and cargo. The schedule calls for 30 hours elapsed flying time westward to eastward, the two hours representing the probably effect of prevailing, westerly winds at this time of the season.

During the five days test postage will be two cents an ounce and only letters addressed by air mail will be accepted, Postmaster Morgan announced.

The schedule calls for the west-bound plane's arrival at San Francisco at 4:15 p. m. tomorrow, Pacific time while the east-bound plane is due at the east-bound plane is 3:15 p. m. eastern standard time; the day following their departing time from San Francisco, 6 a. m. Pacific time. The only night flying will be between Omaha and Shenoan.

PILOT MAKES GOOD TIME

Reno, Nev., Aug. 21.—Pilot Burr Winslow, carrying the first consignment of cross-country mail from the coast, landed at the Reno air mail field at 7:45 this morning and four minutes later Pilot Blanchfield hopped off on the second lapped of the course to Elko. Perfect flying conditions existed and the scheduled time is being made at this end of the country. Pilot Blanchfield took off at 7:50, 25 minutes ahead of schedule. He said he expected to reach Elko in two hours and twenty minutes or less. Elko is not a scheduled stop and it will require a few minutes to change planes there. No time was lost at the Reno field in order to make up for the necessary delay at Elko.

Winslow began his return trip to San Francisco with a passenger. Elko, Nev., Aug. 21.—Pilot Blanchfield reached here from Reno at 10:14 a. m. Pacific time, and Pilot Paul Scott hopped off for Salt Lake City. The transfer of the mail and change of planes occupied about a few minutes. Scott is scheduled to reach Salt Lake City at 2:15 p. m.

FIVE TOURISTS ARE KILLED

Motorbus Plunges Over Cliff, Carrying Americans to Death

Nice, Aug. 21.—Five American tourists and one Frenchman were killed and 12 persons injured, some perhaps fatally, when a sight-seeing motor bus crashed through a parapet on the mountain road between Nice and Erian yesterday, plunging over a 100-foot precipice into the river Var.

Eighteen of the 22 passengers were Americans. The dead are: The Rev. Hiram Grant Person, and Mrs. Person, of Newton, Mass.; Mrs. Alexander Sondeheimer, Mrs. D. S. White, Charles H. Gray of Gardiner, Maine, and the French chauffeur.

The only passenger unhurt was Mrs. Mata Money, also an American. The accident occurred near the village of Euillames, about 40 miles from Nice.

Boston, Aug. 21.—The addresses of persons killed and injured in the motor bus accident at Nice yesterday given out here by officials of a touring company which had charge of the touring party reveal that none of them was from the Northwest.

Nearly a million tortoisones arrive in England every spring. They are much favored as "pets."

POINCARÉ NOTE CONCILIATORY, PARIS REPORTS

Wants to Continue Discussion with British on the Ruhr and Occupations

HOPES FOR DELAY

Believes Prime Minister Baldwin of Britain Will Consider Propositions

Paris, Aug. 21.—(By the Associated Press)—The French government reply to the recent note of Marquis Curzon, British foreign secretary on the foreign situation was handed to the British embassy at 9 o'clock today. The feeling in French official circles is that this note, initiated by Premier Poincaré will prevent a rupture of the entente.

Considerable confidence is expressed that the British cabinet will find it conciliatory, and see in it a basis for continued discussion of the Ruhr occupation and the reparations problem generally.

There is no concealment of the fact that the reply is largely conciliatory; that Premier Poincaré is unyielding on the outstanding features of the situation and that Prime Minister Baldwin will find the reply not conclusive.

It is almost certain, however, that he will regard it as encouraging and without any plans toward Germany until the points in dispute are forthrightly elucidated.

There is said to be a tendency to look more favorably on a new reparations conference of the allies and it is thought to be certain that Premier Poincaré will see Prime Minister Baldwin when the latter returns from his vacation.

The French reply takes up fifty pages of a yellow book which will be issued tomorrow with a summary both in English and French.

MAIL ROUTE TO FT. YATES IS ASSURED

Government Advertiser For Bids For Route Which Will Shorten Mail Time

The star mail route from Fort Yates to Cannonball which goes into operation in the near future will open up a large trade area to Bismarck. Bids are now being advertised. It was through the efforts of the Bismarck Association of Commerce that this new mail route was obtained. The citizens of Fort Yates have expressed deep appreciation to the Association for their efforts in obtaining this mail route, which will shorten the time of mail service from a week to twelve hours.

Fort Yates people declare that it will aid materially in opening up the country north and south of Fort Yates and connect them with the capital city. It will mean that closer relations can be established between the people of the two districts which will result in gains for both groups of citizens.

Information to the effect that the route had been granted and bids were being asked was brought to Bismarck by Frank Fisk, treasurer of Sioux county.

FINE CORN IS RAISED

Burleigh County Products Cannot Be Excelled in Northwest

Fine samples of corn raised in Burleigh county were brought to The Tribune office from the farm of George E. Wallace, former state commissioner, southeast of Bismarck, raised by Mr. Alsbury. Four varieties of corn were raised—Burleigh county mixture, Rainbow flint, Golden Dent, and Gehu flint.

One ear was 17 inches in length, others a foot or more. Much of the corn is 6 and one-half feet high in the field. Mr. Wallace has 175 acres planted, it all is well toward maturity and is likely to escape any damage.

Many samples have been exhibited recently to show that Burleigh county is not only in the corn belt, but is in the finest corn belt in the Northwest.

WHY CATS LEAVE HOME.
Newark, England, Aug. 21.—For pinning a cat down with a pitchfork, a man named Green was fined five pounds here recently. "The most abominable case of cruelty I ever have known," the magistrate said.

SENTENCED

WILLIAM JESSON

Today William Jesson is in the state prison here, sentenced to life imprisonment for the brutal murder of Paul Sundbakken with an ax. The picture was taken in Washburn Saturday after he had made his confession, by A. Risen, Rembrandt studios, Bismarck, called in the case to aid officers in making finger prints and taking photographs.

WOOD NAMES EX-CONVICT, CHARGE MADE

Former President of Philippine Senate Demands Resignation of Mayor

Lays Claim That General Wood's Appointee Is Ex-Convict Before Hughes

Manila, P. I., Aug. 21.—Political circles were jaded by a bomb-throwing afternoon when Manuel Quezon, recently resigned as President of the Philippine Senate because of his differences with the American executive administration announced he had called the Secretary of War that Major Rodriguez of Manila, lately appointed to that post by Governor General Wood, was an ex-convict from Philip prison.

The Herald issued an extra edition demanding editorially that the Governor-General request Mayor Rodriguez' resignation. Quezon charged that Mayor Rodriguez served one year for procuring the abduction of a woman by a band of bandits. He also was convicted, according to Quezon's cable, of being an accomplice to the murder of John P. Berry of the Twenty-seventh United States infantry.

SIMON JAHR GOES WEST

Leaves Wilton to Look After Interests in Spokane

Simon Jahr, a pioneer citizen of Wilton and for many years one of the leading citizens of the city and of McLean county, will leave Wilton next week for Spokane, Washington, where he has business interests.

Mr. Jahr formerly was cashier of the McLean County State Bank which consolidated with the First National Bank of Wilton several months ago, Mr. Jahr retiring.

"Mr. Jahr has been in Wilton for 23 years, was active in city school and civic affairs and served as representative in the legislature from McLean county. His residence is one of the finest in Wilton."

Mr. Jahr, wife and two sons will motor to Spokane.

EDITOR LEAVING FOR WEST COAST

E. W. Peterson of Mandan, editor of the Bismarck Capital, has resigned his position, effective Sept. 1, to leave for California, where he and Mrs. Peterson will make their future home. Their residence at 304 Second Avenue N. W., Mandan, has already been sold to J. G. Need. They will be joined on the automobile trip west by Mr. and Mrs. Gustaf Lang.

For the past eight months Mr. Peterson has been editing the Bismarck Capital. He formerly was in business in Mandan.

PAPER CHANGES HANDS
Elgin, N. D., Aug. 21.—The Elgin News, which was launched in March by James McCormick, has been sold to J. G. Peterson, former treasurer of Grant county. Mr. Peterson is a former newspaper man.

AX MURDERER PLEADS GUILTY, ENTERS PRISON FOR LIFE BLAMING MOONSHINE, MOTHER DEDICATES SELF TO FIGHT IT

William McKinley Jesson Stands Calmly Before Judge Janssonius to Plead Guilty and Receive Sentence For Murder of Paul Sundbakken While All Others in Court-Room Are Visibly Affected—Mother and Father With Him When Sentence Is Pronounced

William McKinley Jesson, 26, entered the gates of the North Dakota state prison east of the city last night to serve a life sentence for the murder of Paul Sundbakken. With the closing of the gates on him hope for legal liberty for at least 25 years passed, for under the state law one sentenced for murder in the first degree cannot be pardoned until he has served half his life expectancy, and at least 25 years.

Miss Jacob Jesson, his mother, hands and face bruised by long and arduous toil on the farm, went back to her home four miles north of Russo with a new mission. She dedicated herself to fighting moonshine and moonshiners. For she blames liquor for her son's act.

While a stirring scene was being enacted in hushed voices in the somber Burleigh county court-room here at 6 o'clock last night, with the mother and father standing before District Judge Fred Janssonius to receive his sentence. The judge was downcast, for Jesson's elder brother is one of his best friends.

The mother and father turned their heads in their hands, the father sat suffering silent and the handful of officers in the court room wore tense expressions. Jesson alone was unmoved. The young man who said he crushed the head of Paul Sundbakken, 22, with the blunt side of an axe in Sundbakken's bunk car at Russo a week ago last night, was the coolest person in the court-room.

Amazement was written on the faces of those in the court-room. The statement of John F. Sullivan of Mandan, special representative of the attorney-general's office, that Jesson was the coolest man in such a situation he had ever seen was reiterated by hardened officers of the law. There even was a trace of anger on some countenances as the murderer stood calmly chewing gum as his mother wept by his side. No move he made to comfort her, so she left him to weep on the shoulders of a younger son.

Just once did Jesson hesitate. This when Judge Janssonius for about the fifth time asked him if he knew he was pleading guilty to first degree murder. He knew that meant life imprisonment. But a moment later he again said he pled guilty.

There was only one "if" in Jesson's plea. "I want to say one thing, judge," he said, "if it wasn't for moonshine and cards I wouldn't be before you right now."

His mother broke down. It was not until after sentence had been pronounced and there was a brief delay while the commitment was being made out that Mrs. Jesson, the mother broke. First she had sat on a spectator's bench, at the attorney's table. There she swayed back and forth under a nervous tension. When sentence had been pronounced she broke down and wept.

Standing in the court room she made her declaration.

"I'll fight moonshine all my life," she said. "I'll join the W. C. T. U. and I'll run down every one I can. My boy wouldn't be here if it wasn't for that."

She shook hands with the judge, talked with the officers, and showed she bore them no enmity.

Jesson had confessed to the murder of Sundbakken in Washburn. He was brought to Bismarck to appear before Judge Janssonius late yesterday.

His confession, in which he told how he first struck Sundbakken, his friend, with his fist and then crushed his head with an ax because he declared Sundbakken was using marked cards in a poker game, was placed before Judge Janssonius and other records brought.

In one automobile came Deputy Sheriff J. T. Wise, State's Attorney George Gibson, Clerk of Court, Jacob Scholten, county clerk, and two younger brothers of the murderer. Later came the father and mother, the accused and Chief of Police Martinson of Bismarck. John F. Sullivan of Mandan was called to the court house.

Jesson was attired in the same khaki work clothes he wore when he killed Sundbakken. He is a short man, about 5 feet 6 inches in height, and weighs not more than 140 to 145 pounds. His blonde hair was brushed back. He appeared a pleasant young man of intelligence and breeding. There was no trace of bravado in his attitude.

"Don't Want Lawyer."

Jesson leaned comfortably on the edge of the clerk's desk as he appeared before Judge Janssonius. The judge gave him the confession and asked him if he had signed it. Jesson said he had.

"Do you have an attorney?" the court asked.

"No, I don't want any," he replied.

It was a moment later that he told the court if it wasn't for moonshine and cards he wouldn't be there. Officers said he had previously told them he knew everything he said. Chief Martinson also said that they found the deck of cards Jesson said was marked, and they were marked cards. Sundbakken had won but six or seven dollars, the chief said.

Judge Janssonius assured the accused that he didn't need to answer any questions, asked him if he understood what he was doing and again if he did not want a lawyer.

"No, it wouldn't do any good," he replied.

"Do you desire to plead guilty?" the judge asked.

"Uh, I want to plead guilty," Jesson replied.

Thanks Officers.

"Is there anything else you want to say?" the court asked.

"Well, I'd like to say that Sheriff Maxwell and State's Attorney Gibson treated me fine all the time and so did Chief Martinson. And I don't think any other man would have got the truth out of me but Chief Martinson. Judge, I'd like to thank them."

LEWIS SEES STRIKE AHEAD SEPTEMBER 1

Operators Reject Demand for Wage Increase Presented at Conference

U. S. YET WILL ACT

Commission Is Expected to Make Every Effort to Avert Coal Strike

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 21.—The parley between anthracite operators and miners over a new wage contract designed to prevent a cessation of work in the hard coal fields Sept. 1 broke up today. Adjournment was taken subject to call of the secretary of the joint conference.

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, declared this afternoon that unless something unforeseen happened the miners would consider themselves out of employment Sept. 1.

It seemed generally conceded by observers that only government intervention could prevent a tie-up of mines.

The break came when the operators refused to give the wage increase demanded by the miners. The federal coal commission had induced the parties to resume wage negotiations after conferences in New York last week.

RENEW EFFORT
Washington, Aug. 21.—There was every indication that in view of the break-up of the Atlantic City conference that the federal government would renew its agreement to prevent suspension of anthracite coal mining on Sept. 1.

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 21.—Today, the second of renewed wage contract negotiations in the anthracite industry, found mine operators and miners' union officials, widely separated in their ideas of proper mine pay rates. The subject opened at the first meeting yesterday was scheduled to be taken again in joint meeting for discussion today while the 10 other demands of the union upon the mine owners were temporarily set aside.

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, emphasized the $2 increase demanded for day men as especially justified in view of recent increases for steel workers, building trades and textile mills. S. D. Warriner, head of the operators' policy committee, responded that the anthracite scales were fixed in 1920, had not been decreased since and had been declared generally adequate by the United States Coal Commission.

The miners' union spokesman further said that the bituminous miners got more money while the operators countered with the proposition that the anthracite mines gave regular employment.

The demand for 20 percent increase in piece rates per ton for coal which affects miners other than day men was up for fuller examination today. The operators group figure that the increased wage bill would add $2 a ton to the prices of prepared coal to the consumer, and took the position that no further increase could be burdened by the operators or the public.

ENTERS SUIT FOR TAXES
Judgment Is Asked by Burleigh County Attorney

Suit for judgment for taxes amounting to approximately $33,000 has been instituted by Joseph Coghill, assistant state attorney. The water company has filed a petition for removal of the case to the federal court, being a foreign corporation, and removal has been granted.

Sometime ago Sheriff Hedstrom levied on the property of the company for taxes. The company has filed no formal objection to this action.

OUTBREAK OF ANTHRAX IN CATTLE HERD

An outbreak of anthrax, fatal cat disease, is reported near Osgawell by the state Livestock Sanitary Board.

About 12 animals have died, but two representatives of the board are believed to have checked the spread. Dr. W. P. Crew, executive officer of the board, said today.

There is an epidemic of anthrax in South Dakota which has destroyed thousands of dollars worth of cattle. Dr. Crew said, and he and his assistants hope to prevent any such condition in North Dakota.

MANY PLANES USED

Night Flying Scheduled on Only Stretch—Flying Time Figured 30 Hours

New York, Aug. 21.—(By the Associated Press).—Landed with 24,000 complimentary stamps and weighing 575 pounds and a few first edition daily newspapers, one of five mail airplanes was ready today to inaugurate a five-day test aerial express trans-continental mail service, the success of which will determine its permanency.

Regardless of weather conditions planes will hop off daily from New York and San Francisco daily until Saturday. At 11 a. m. Pilot C. Eugene Johnson, in spite of the fact that late last night he suffered a severe bronchial attack with high temperature, was to take flight from Hazelhurst field, Long Island, on the first westward flight west. Johnson will pass a plane in mid-continent.

The plane leaving here tomorrow will be piloted by Shirley Shook, that on Thursday by W. L. Smith; Friday C. F. Collins and Saturday Brooke Pearson.

Cleveland, Chicago, Omaha, Sheyenne, Salt Lake City and Reno are designated as stopping points for the mail plane to re-fuel ship, pilots, machine and cargo. The schedule calls for 30 hours elapsed flying time westward to eastward, the two hours representing the probably effect of prevailing westerly winds at this time of the season.

During the five days test postage will be two cents an ounce and only letters addressed by air mail will be accepted. Postmaster Morgan announced.

The schedule calls for the west-bound plane's arrival at San Francisco at 4:15 p. m. tomorrow. Pacific time while the scheduled arriving time of the east-bound plane is 3:15 p. m. eastern standard time; the day following their departing time from San Francisco, 6 a. m. Pacific time.

The only night flying will be between Omaha and Sheyenne.

PILOT MAKES GOOD TIME

Reno, Nev., Aug. 21.—Pilot Burr Winslow, carrying the first consignment of cross-country mail from the coast, landed at the Reno air field at 7:46 this morning and four minutes later Pilot Blanchfield hopped off on the second lapped of the course to Elko. Perfect flying conditions existed and the scheduled time is being made at this end of the country. Pilot Blanchfield took off at 7:50, 25 minutes ahead of the schedule. He is expected to reach Elko in two hours and twenty minutes or less. Elko is not a scheduled stop and it will require a few minutes to change planes there. No time was lost at the Reno field in order to make up for the necessary delay at Elko.

Winslow began his return trip to San Francisco with a passenger. Elko, Nev., Aug. 21.—Pilot Blanchfield reached here from Reno at 10:14 a. m. Pacific time, and Pilot Paul Scott hopped off for Salt Lake City. The transfer of the mail and change of planes occupied only a few minutes. Scott is scheduled to reach Salt Lake City at 2:15 p. m.

FIVE TOURISTS ARE KILLED

Motorbus Plunges Over Cliff, Carrying Americans to Death

Nice, Aug. 21.—Five American tourists and one Frenchman were killed and 12 persons injured, some perhaps fatally, when a sight-seeing motor bus crashed through a parapet on the mountain road between Nice and Evian yesterday, plunging over a 100-foot precipice into the river Var.

Eighteen of the 22 passengers were Americans. The dead are: Mrs. Person, of Newton, Mass.; Mrs. Alexander Sanderhelmer, Mrs. D. S. White, Charles H. Gray of Gardiner, Maine, and the French chauffeur.

The only passenger unhurt was Mrs. Mata Money, also an American. The accident occurred near the village of Eullames, about 40 miles from Nice.

Boston, Aug. 21.—The addresses of persons killed and injured in the motor bus accident at Nice yesterday given out here by officials of a touring company which had charge of the touring party reveal that none of them was from the Northwest.

POINCARÉ NOTE CONCILIATORY, PARIS REPORTS

Wants to Continue Discussion with British on the Ruhr and Occupations

Believes Prime Minister Baldwin of Britain Will Consider Propositions

Paris, Aug. 21.—(By the Associated Press).—The French government reply to the recent note of Marcus Curzon, British foreign secretary on the foreign situation was handed to the British embassy at 9 o'clock today. The feeling in French official circles is that this note initiated by Premier Poincaré will prevent a rupture of the entente.

Considerable confidence is expressed that the British cabinet will find it conciliatory and see in it a basis for continued discussion of the Ruhr occupation and the reparations problem generally.

There is no concealment of the fact that the reply is largely controversial; that Premier Poincaré is unyielding on the outstanding features of the situation and that Prime Minister Baldwin will find the reply not conciliatory.

It is almost certain, however, that he will regard it as encouraging and withhold any plans toward Germany until the points in dispute are further elucidated.

There is said to be a tendency to look more favorably on a new reparations conference of the allies and it is thought to be certain that Premier Poincaré will see Prime Minister Baldwin when the latter returns from his vacation.

The French reply takes up fifty pages of a yellow book which will be issued tomorrow with a summary both in English and French.

Government Advertises For Bids For Route Which Will Shorten Mail Time

The star mail route from Fort Yates to Cannonball which goes into operation in the near future will open up a large trade area to Bismarck. Bids are now being advertised. It was through the efforts of the Bismarck Association of Commerce that this new mail route was obtained.

The citizens of Fort Yates have expressed deep appreciation to the Association for their efforts in obtaining this mail route, which will shorten the time of mail service from a week to twelve hours.

Fort Yates people declare that it will aid materially in opening up the country north and south of Fort Yates and connect them with the capital city. It will mean that closer relations can be established between the people of the two districts which will result in gains for both groups of citizens.

Information to the effect that the route had been granted and bids were being asked was brought to Bismarck by Frank Fick, treasurer of Sioux county.

FINE CORN IS RAISED

Burleigh County Products Cannot be Excelled in Northwest

Fine samples of corn raised in Burleigh county were brought to The Tribune office from the farm of George E. Wallace, former state commissioner, southeast of Bismarck, raised by Mr. Alsbury.

Four varieties of corn were raised—Burleigh county mixture Rainbow flint, Golden Dent, and Gehu flint.

One ear was 17 inches in length, others a foot or more. Much of the corn is 6 and one-half inch high in the field. Mr. Wallace has 175 acres planted, it all is well toward maturity and is likely to escape any damage.

Many samples have been exhibited recently to show that Burleigh county is not only in the corn belt, but is in the finest corn belt in the Northwest.

WHY CATS LEAVE HOME.
Newark, England, Aug. 21.—For pinning a cat down with a pitchfork, a man named Green was fined five pounds last week. "The most shameful case of cruelty I ever have known," the magistrate said.

SENTENCED

WILLIAM JESSON

Today William Jesson is in the state prison here, sentenced to life imprisonment for the brutal murder of Paul Sundbakken with an axe. The picture was taken in Washburn Saturday after he had made his confession, by A. Risem, Rembrandt studios, Bismarck, called in the case to aid officers in making finger prints and taking photographs.

WOOD NAMES EX-CONVICT, CHARGE MADE

Former President of Philippine Senate Demands Resignation of Mayor

Lays Claim That General Wood's Appointee Is Ex-Convict Before Hughes

Manila, P. I., Aug. 21.—Political circles were jarred by a bombshell this afternoon when Manuel Quezon, recently resigned as President of the Philippine Senate because of his differences with the American executive administration announced he had called the Secretary of War that Mayor Rodriguez of Manila, lately appointed to that post by Governor-General Wood, was an ex-convict from Filibig prison.

The Herald issued an extra edition demanding editorially that the Governor-General request Mayor Rodriguez' resignation. Quezon charged that Mayor Rodriguez served one year for procuring the abduction of a woman by a band of bandits. He also was convicted, according to Quezon's cable, of being an accomplice to the murder of John P. Berry of the Twenty-seventh United States infantry.

SIMON JAHR GOES WEST

Leaves Wilton to Look After Interests in Spokane

Simon Jahr, a pioneer citizen of Wilton and for many years one of the leading citizens of the city and of McLean County, will leave Wilton next week for Spokane, Washington, where he has business interests.

Mr. Jahr formerly was cashier of the McLean County State Bank which consolidated with the First National Bank of Wilton several months ago. Mr. Jahr retiring.

Mr. Jahr has been in Wilton for 23 years, was active in city school and civic affairs and served as representative in the legislature from McLean county. His residence is one of the finest in Wilton.

Mr. Jahr, wife and two sons will motor to Spokane.

EDITOR LEAVING FOR WEST COAST

E. W. Peterson of Mandan, editor of the Bismarck Capital, has resigned his position, effective Sept. 1, to leave for California, where he and Mrs. Peterson will make their future home. Their residence at 304 Second Avenue N. W., Mandan, has already been sold to J. G. Nead. They will be joined on the automobile trip west by Mr. and Mrs. Gustav Lang.

For the past eight months Mr. Peterson has been editing the Bismarck Capital. He formerly was in business in Mandan.

PAPER CHANGES HANDS
Elgin, N. D., Aug. 21.—The Elgin News, which was launched in March by James McCormick, has been sold to J. G. Patterson, former treasurer of Grant county. Mr. Patterson is a former newspaper man.

AX MURDERER PLEADS GUILTY, ENTERS PRISON FOR LIFE BLAMING MOONSHINE, MOTHER DEDICATES SELF TO FIGHT IT

William McKinley Jesson Stands Calmly Before Judge Janssonius to Plead Guilty and Receive Sentence For Murder of Paul Sundbakken While All Others in Court-Room Are Visibly Affected—Mother and Father With Him When Sentence Is Pronounced

William McKinley Jesson, 26, entered the gates of the North Dakota state prison east of the city last night to serve a life sentence for the murder of Paul Sundbakken. With the closing of the gates on him hope for legal liberty for at least 25 years passed, for under the state law one sentenced for murder in the first degree cannot be pardoned until he has served half his life expectancy, and at least 25 years.

Mrs. Jacob Jesson, his mother, hands and face bronzed by long and arduous toil on the farm, went back to her home four miles north of Russo with a new mission. She dedicated herself to fighting moonshine and moonshiners. For she blames liquor for her son's act.

While a stirring scene was being enacted in hushed voices in the somber Burleigh county court-room here at 6 o'clock last night, with skies darkened by drizzling rain and lights casting pale shadows about the court room, young Jesson stood before District Judge Fred Janssonius to receive his sentence. The judge was downcast, for Jesson's elder brother, one of his best friends, was downcast.

The mother cried, two younger brothers buried their heads in their hands, the father sat suffering silent and the handful of officers in the court room wore tense expressions. Jesson alone was unmoved. The young man who said he crushed the head of Paul Sundbakken, 22, with the blunt side of an axe in Sundbakken's bunk car at Russo a week ago last night, was the coolest person in the court-room.

Amazement was written on the faces of those in the court-room. The statement of John P. Sullivan of Mandan, special representative of the attorney-general's office, that Jesson was the coolest man in such a situation he had ever seen was reiterated by hardened officers of the law. There even was a trace of anger on some countenances as the murderer stood calmly chewing gum as his mother wept by his side. No move he made to comfort her, so she left him to weep on the shoulders of a younger son.

Just once did Jesson hesitate. This when Judge Janssonius for about the fifth time asked him if he knew he was pleading guilty to first degree murder. He knew that meant life imprisonment. But a moment later he again said he'd plead guilty.

"There was only the slightest apology as he stood before the judge. "I want to say one thing, judge," he said, "if it wasn't for moonshine and cards I wouldn't be before you right now."

Mother Breaks Down.
It was not until after sentence had been pronounced and there was a brief delay while the commitment was being made out that Mrs. Jesson, the mother broke. First she had sat on a spectator's bench, and then moved to a chair at the attorney's table. There she swayed back and forth under a nervous tension. When sentence had been pronounced she broke down and wept.

Standing in the court room she made her declaration. "I'll fight moonshine all my life," she said. "I'll join the W. C. T. U. and I'll run down every one I can. My boy wouldn't be here if it wasn't for that."

She shook hands with the judge, talked with the officers, and showed she bore them no enmity. Jesson had confessed to the murder of Sundbakken in Washburn. He was brought to Bismarck to appear before Judge Janssonius late yesterday. His confession, in which he told how he first struck Sundbakken, his friend, with his fist and then crushed his head with an axe because he declared Sundbakken was using marked cards in a poker game, was placed before Judge Janssonius and other records brought.

In one automobile came Deputy Sheriff J. T. Wiese, State's Attorney George Gibson, Clerk of Court Jacob Schlichemayer and two younger brothers of the murderer. Later came the father and mother, the accused and Chief of Police Martinson of Bismarck. John P. Sullivan of Mandan was called to the court house.

Jesson was attired in the same khaki work clothes he wore when he killed Sundbakken. He is a short man, about 5 feet 6 inches in height, and weighs not more than 140 to 145 pounds. His blonde hair was brushed and combed. He appeared a pleasant young man of intelligence and breeding. There was no trace of bravado in his attitude.

"Don't Want Lawyer."
Jesson leaned comfortably on the edge of the clerk's desk as he appeared before Judge Janssonius. The judge gave him the confession and asked him if he had signed it. Jesson said he had.

"Do you have an attorney?" the court asked.

"No, I don't want any," he replied. "It was a moment later that he told the court if it wasn't for moonshine and cards he wouldn't be there. Officers said he had previously told them he knew everything he said."

Chief Martinson also said that they found the deck of cards Jesson said was marked, and they were marked cards. Sundbakken had won but six or seven dollars, the chief said.

Judge Janssonius assured the accused that he didn't need to answer any questions, asked him if he understood what he was doing and again if he did not want a lawyer.

"No, it wouldn't do any good," he replied.

"Do you desire to plead guilty?" the judge asked.

"Uh, I want to plead guilty," Jesson replied.

Thanks Officers.

"Is there anything else you want to say?" the court asked.

"Well, I'd like to say that Sheriff Maxwell and State's Attorney Gibson treated me fine all the time and so did Chief Martinson. And I don't think any other man would have got the truth out of me but Chief Martinson. Judge, I'd like to say that."

LEWIS SEES STRIKE AHEAD SEPTEMBER 1

Operators Reject Demand for Wage Increase Presented at Conference

U. S. YET WILL ACT

Commission is Expected to Make Every Effort to Avert Coal Strike

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 21.—The parley between anthracite operators and miners over a new wage contract designed to prevent a cessation of work in the hard coal fields Sept. 1 broke up today. Adjournment was taken subject to call of the secretary of the joint conference.

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, declared this afternoon that unless something unforeseen happened the miners would consider themselves out of employment Sept. 1.

It seemed generally conceded by observers that only government intervention could prevent a tie-up of mines.

RENEW EFFORT

Washington, Aug. 21.—There was every indication that in view of the break-up of the Atlantic City conference that the federal government would renew its agreement to prevent suspension of anthracite coal mining on Sept. 1.

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 21.—Today, the second of renewed wage contract negotiations in the anthracite industry, found mine operators and miners' union officials, widely separated in their ideas of proper mine pay rates. The subject opened at the first meeting yesterday was scheduled to be taken again into joint meeting for discussion today while the 10 other demands of the union upon the mine owners were temporarily set aside.

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, emphasized the $2 increase demanded for day men as especially justified in view of the increased prices for steel works, building trades and textile hands. S. D. Warriner, head of the operators' policy committee, responded that the anthracite scales were fixed in 1920, had not been decreased since and had been declared generally adequate by the United States Coal Commission.

The miners' union spokesman further said that the bituminous miners got more money while the operators countered with the proposition that anthracite mines gave regular employment.

The demand for 20 percent increase in piece rate per ton for coal which affects miners other than day men were up for fuller examination today. The operators group figured that the increased wage bill would add $2 a ton to the price of prepared coal to the consumer, and took the position that no further increase could be burdened by the operators or the public.

Judgment is Asked by Burleigh County Attorney

Suit for judgment for taxes amounting to approximately $35,000 has been instituted by Joseph Coghill, assistant state attorney. The water company has filed a petition for removal of the case to the federal court, being a foreign corporation, and removal has been granted.

Sometime ago Sheriff Hedstrom levied on the property of the company for taxes. The company has filed no formal objection to this action.

OUTBREAK OF ANTHRAX IN CATTLE HERD

An outbreak of anthrax, fatal cattle disease, is reported near Osgood by the state Livestock Sanitary Board.

About 12 animals have died, but two representatives of the board are believed to have checked the spread. Dr. W. F. Crew, executive officer of the board, said today.

There is an epidemic of anthrax in South Dakota which has destroyed thousands of dollars worth of cattle. Dr. Crew said, and he and his assistants hope to prevent any such condition in North Dakota.

Colored globes in chemists' windows were first displayed by Moonlight druggists of Arabia and Spain.

NO SHORTAGE OF LABOR BUT WAGES HIGH

Harvesting Delayed Some Places in the Northwest by Rain, Reports Say

The weekly crop review of Van Dusen Harrington Company for the Northwest, issued as of Aug. 15, follows:

Harvesting of the small grain crops has not as yet been completed in the Northern and Western parts of North Dakota and Montana.

Since our report of last week,
threshing has been somewhat delayed owing to rain.

There is generally no shortage of labor, but wages are high.

As threshing returns are received, the spotted nature of the small grain crops is evident. In North Dakota especially, and also in South Dakota and Minnesota, there are many fields of wheat and rye that are not worth cutting. There are other fields in nearby districts that have yielded from 3 to 15 bushels per acre.

It is too early to get any accurate idea of the outcome in Montana, but there are many good districts as well as others that are only an average.

In some of our previous letters we reported durum as showing less damage than the bread wheat. We find that durum has also suffered severely and the outcome will probably be poorer than the early prospects indicated.
There are fields of durum that will not be cut as they suffered severely from both rust and heat.

The average small grain crops in Minnesota are much better than either South Dakota or North Dakota.
The good yields of durum, oats and flax have been produced.

In Minnesota and South Dakota threshing returns have shown oats yielding as low as 3 bushels to the acre, and as high as 60 bushels. Barley in these two states from 8 to 40 bushels. In North Dakota both barley and oats have been badly damaged and the barley crop in that state is the poorest in years.

Corn continues to thrive, although there are occasional fields that have been hurt by heat and dry weather.
A number of towns will market corn this year that have never done so before, owing to the increased acreage in many districts. There are a large number of excellent fields in North Dakota, which is unusual for that state, and it is predicted that next season the corn acreage in that state will be greatly increased.

Flax reports are coming in slowly as very little threshing has been accomplished except in Southern Minnesota and South Dakota. A number of returns show flax yielding as high as 15 and 16 bushels per acre, while others are around 8 bushels. In North Dakota, since the recent rains, some fields have become quite weedy.
While the crop as a rule will show a heavy dockage, we believe the final outcome will be satisfactory.

German Prince Sues For Lands

Breslau, Aug. 20.—Oels, the former principality which the exiled Crown Prince is attempting to recover from the Prussian government, is a property near this city and consists of about 20,000 acres of land and two ancient castles.

Oels was formerly ruled as a principality by the Dukes of Braunschweig and was for a time under British rule. When the last Duke of Braunschweig died in 1884 the principality was given to the crown prince of Prussia. It contains the town of Oels, which has about 10,000 inhabitants.

The property was confiscated after the Hohenzollerns abdicated and the special commission named to effect a settlement between the state and the former imperial house worked out a treaty whereby Oels was to go back to the Crown Prince as his personal property. But the Prussian diet failed to approve this arrangement, and the Crown Prince has begun action in the courts against the Prussian state. This action is apparently inspired by renewed attempts in the Reichstag to get through legislation expropriating all the property which belonged to the Hohenzollerns and other prominent families.

New Riding Qualities Appeal to Prospects

It is evident from the expressions of buyers and prospective buyers that a decided improvement has been made in the riding qualities of Dodge Brothers Motor Cars. No one who goes through the showroom to inspect the new line misses an opportunity to sit in the deep and roomy seats and comment on their exceptional comfort.
The seats and body are considerably lower than before, not only adding to riding ease, but affording much more leg room.

In addition, the gear shift lever has been moved forward, giving an unusual amount of room. The instruments have been grouped on an attractive panel, and the leverage of the clutch pedal has been altered in such a way that the slightest pressure of the foot answers the purpose.
This latter improvement is of especial interest to women who find it a great convenience in driving in heavy traffic.

BUSINESS IS DISCUSSED

Washington, Aug. 20.—Business conditions throughout the country and the relation of government to business were discussed at a conference today between President Coolidge and some of the nation's leading business men as represented in the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

60 RIBBONS AT 3 FAIRS HIS RECORD

Fargo, N. D., Aug. 20.—Winning sixty ribbons in three fairs is the record made so far this year by the Holsteins of Verdant Valley Farm, owned by Ross R. Martin of Fowers Lake, N. D., and a former student at the North Dakota Agricultural college.

Mr. Martin finds that his former teacher, the agricultural college, is now competing with him for fair honors, as one of his cows had not been beaten at 1923 fairs until the fair at Minot when she lost the blue ribbon to an agricultural college cow. While at the college Mr.
Martin studied the best methods of dairy breeding and production and has put theory into practice with blue-ribbon getting results.

His stock traces back to Sir Pie-tertie Ormsby Mercedes 14th and 7th and to the De Kol family of famous Holsteins.

One of his cows, Allie Bracelet, Pietje won the highest possible honors at Devils Lake and Stanley and second at Minot. Her 1912 production record was 16029 lbs.
of milk containing 711 lbs. of butter.

MORTON COUNTY AUDITOR TO GO BEFORE BOARD

County Auditor Nichols of Morton county was to appear before the state board of equalization this afternoon in reference to the charges made by the state board in the assessment of Mandan real estate. Complaints had been made in Mandan. They were answered by statements that the raises were necessary to bring Mandan in line with other counties. Information reached the board from Mr. Nichols that mistakes had been made in reporting his abstract to the board and that he would appear before the board to make correction.

TREASURER OF S. D. RESIGNS

Pierre, S. D., Aug. 20.—Governor
W. H. McMaster today confirmed reports that the resignation of W. H.
O'Brien had been presented and accepted by him, to become effective Sept. 1.

Further than this Governor McMaster would not make any statement.
However, information comes from a high official source that the resignation was demanded by the Governor and was tendered a few hours after requested.

O'Brien served one term as state treasurer and was re-elected to the last election.

ASKS 30 CENTS LIBEL DAMAGES FROM SENATOR

Brookhart's Effectiveness Fixed at About That Amount
By Meredith

Des Moines, Ia., Aug. 20 (By the A. P.).—Charges by Senator Smith W. Brookhart of Iowa that E. B. Meredith while occupying the office of Secretary of Agriculture "sat in the Wall street game and helped produce the greatest panic in farm prices in the history of Agriculture" has prompted Mr. Meredith to instruct his attorneys to file suit against the Senator for libel and damages of thirty cents. Mr. Meredith declared in a statement today.

Senator Brookhart's charge, made in an address at Radcliffe, Iowa, last Wednesday, Mr. Meredith said "involved my integrity and honor and was without basis in fact."

"But few people give any credence to Brookhart's statement," Mr. Meredith said, "and while the damage of his statement might be more I estimate his effectiveness at about 30 cents so I have instructed my attorneys to file suit for libel and damages in this amount—the real compensation in getting Mr. Brookhart on record under oath. The public will now have an opportunity to find out how near he can come to proving his mouthings."

ing in Fargo. Mr. Garberg was for many years state's attorney for Hettinger county and later served the

CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY OF OIL WELL

E. L. Drake, Pioneer in Pennsylvania Oil Fields, To Be Honored

Titusville, Pa., Aug. 20.—Sixty-four years ago Colonel E. L. Drake "struck oil" at Titusville formerly ushering in what has since become the great petroleum industry of the country.
He was the pioneer, and to celebrate his achievement a large body of representative oil and gas men will assemble here beginning August 27, the day upon which Colonel Drake's well actually sent forth its precious fluid.
The event has been celebrated in previous years locally, but this time plans have been laid to make the observances national, both in character and regional representation.

In addition to the reunion and social features of the program, there will be heard practical messages from the leaders in the business today, with A. G. Bedford, chairman of the board of directors of the Standard Oil company, as the chief speaker.

Colonel Drake was guided in a remarkable manner in the sinking of his first well. Had he drilled any one of the thousand of wells which have been drilled since then, he would not have struck oil in any one of them at the same depth and in the same formation as in the discovery well. There have been many wells as shallow, and shallower, in other formations, but the original Drake well was in a class by itself.
The depth at which oil was found in it is given in the records as 69 1/2 feet, or less than half the depth to even the first sand in that locality.

Colonel Drake seemed destined to strike oil at that particular spot, and did so in spite of all kinds of handicaps in the primitive conditions under which he worked, including the exhaustion of funds, and at least temporary desertion by his original backers.

Reduction in Prices By Willys-Overland

Notification of Cut in Willys-Overland Line Surprises
Motor Industry

Toledo, Ohio, Aug. 20.—John N.
Willys, President of the Willys-Overland Company, Toledo, Ohio, today caused a furor in automobile circles by his announcement of immediate price reductions and great improvements in the 1923
Willys-Overland lines.

This action embracing a drop in price on the Willys-Knight touring car and roadster models from $1335 to $1175, F. O. B. factory, and on the Willys-Knight Coupe-Sedan from $1535 to $1500, came as a distinct surprise to the automobile industry and motoring public in view of the advance in price made by not a few manufacturers in announcing their 1924 models.

The new values in Willys-Knight and Overland cars are the direct result of the wonderful sales and production records made by the Willys-Overland Company this year eclipsing any previous period in its history, which determined the officials of the company to share with the public the appreciable saving in costs made possible by an enormous increase in business.

Mr. Willys added that in every detail all the advantages of the Willys-Knight car have been retained, while improvements have been added, making this car, powered with the famous Willys-Knight sleeve-valve motor, a bigger value than ever before.

This announcement has great significance because it marks a new valuation record for automotive products in the face of a gen-

Playgrounds Lessen Juvenile Delinquency

St. Louis City, Aug. 20.—Juvenile delinquency in St. Louis City is showing a decided decrease over the records of previous years, C. H. Orpin, juvenile officer, declares. He estimated that misdemeanors among children have been cut down 20 percent in the last two years.

Municipal bathing places, parks and playground activities are responsible for the better moral fibre of children,
Mr. Orpin says.

"Tax payers seldom realize the good investment that is being made by providing facilities for recreational activities which furnish an outlet for the energy of the young," said Mr. Orpin. "Good, healthy exercise and amusement leave the minds of the children clear, and there is very little energy left for crime, plots, or inclinations toward misdemeanors."

NORTH DAKOTA WINS FAME FOR ITS BUSY BEES

Have Been Heard From Throughout United States And Also in Canada

Fargo, N. D., Aug. 21.—The honey bee is popularly supposed to travel only in a straight line, hence the origin of the term "bee line." But news of the activities of the bee are not limited by direction or distance. North Dakota bees, especially, have been heard of throughout the United States and Canada. Radiating in every direction news of the enormous bee crops and numerous apiaries of this state finally reached the state agricultural college of Texas.

These stories came to the ear of the Texas state entomologist, Dr. M. C. Tanquary. Dr. Tanquary is not a doubting Thomas nature, but some of these stories of vast honey production and unusual profits to be made from bee keeping were a little hard for even the credulous to believe, so the entomologist boarded a train for Fargo, and, upon reaching that city Friday promptly sought an audience with the North Dakota state entomologist, Dr. R. L. Webster.

After the pleasant formalities of introduction were completed the following conversation is said to have taken place.

"We of Texas have heard much lately of the successful bee industry that North Dakota is enjoying. We do not doubt the entire truth of these reports, but, Dr. Webster, Texas has more bee colonies than any state in the union and we are a little jealous down there of our reputation in honey production. We do not doubt you, Dr. Webster, but we think perhaps the press may have exaggerated the stories. In other words, we should like to be shown."

"Certainly, Dr. Tanquary," our genial entomologist finally broke in. "If you have the time we'll take a day's tour to some of the bee farms and apiaries in the vicinity of Fargo."

They jumped into Dr. Webster's Hupmobile and drove to the apiary of Mr. O. F. Miller of Fargo, the bee farms of the Chaffee-Krietes at Amenia, to Mark Anderson's apiary at Mapleton, and to Conrad Hutsaard's apiary at Kindred.

On the way back to Fargo the Texas entomologist finally broke in again. "Never have I seen more prosperous bee-yards," he said. "There are great possibilities for North Dakota in the bee industry. The stories of big honey production are certainly to be believed now, and the only wonder is that more farmers are not going into the business. The apologies of Texas and the compliments of Texas are yours, Dr. Webster. 'Much of the success in North Dakota can be traced to your effective methods and the diligence and skill with which the farmers of the state cooperate with you.'"

Before he boarded the train to his native state, Dr. Tanquary stated that too few people realized the possibilities in bee keeping and that there was an industry that should receive a boon to more farmers in the state.

But he stressed the grave danger in disease unless the beekeepers were exceedingly careful about bringing in bees from other states.

"You have an excellent brood law here, however," he added, "and if the provisions of the North Dakota foul-brood law are strictly complied with, there should be no disease in the bee farms of this state. Texas has no such law and one hatched somewhat after yours would be very valuable to us."

The foul-brood law referred to is the one passed in North Dakota last year, which requires shipper's credentials with all bees shipped into the state and also gives the state bee inspector, Dr. Webster, full authority to inspect any bee yards and kill or treat all diseased bees.

Trust Company May File Bill To Foreclose Mortgage

Minneapolis, Aug. 21.—The Guaranty Trust Company of New York has been granted permission by Judge Wilbur Booth in federal court to intervene and file a bill in its petition to foreclose a mortgage of $5,896,000 against the Minneapolis and St. Louis Railroad company and amendment to its order appointing a receiver, which were presented to Judge Booth for approval. The trust company asked that income from that portion of the railroad property covered by the mortgage be segregated. The first mortgage is on the railroad between South Dakota and Minnesota points.

Titles Echo In Berlin Hotels

Munich, Aug. 21.—American tourists get many a smile out of the strings of titles shouted through German lobbies and cafes by pages in search of guests who are wanted on the telephone.

"Frau Doctor Professor Director Schmidt, bitte," isn't an unusual mouthful for the pages. The "bitte" is "please," and all the rest of the titles are the property of Mrs. Schmidt's husband, and must be used by servants who want to keep in favor with the doctor.

Democracy has not discouraged the German love for titles. And women love them just as much as men, and insist upon having everything attached to their names which belongs to their husband.

"Frau Advokat Braun" is not a woman lawyer. She is Mrs. Sawyer Brown the wife of Lawyer Brown. And "Frau Doktor Weiss" is the wife of Doctor White. If she happens to be a doctor herself she will probably be called "Frau Doktor Marie Weiss," or Mrs. Doctor Marie Weiss.

Doctors are so numerous in Germany that telephone directories have the appearance of faculty lists for a medical school in America. But the doctors are not all medical. Every one who has been awarded a doctorate, or a doctorate of law or the philosophy, or a doctorate of science, or a doctorate of law or theology, uses the "doctor." It is part of his, or her, stock in trade. It is a trade mark of gentility, a social asset which goes on hotel registers and calling cards and establishes the position of the family in any neighborhood.

MARGARET'S BOOK REALLY OUGHT TO BE AMAZING

MARGARET SHOTWELL

By NEA Service.
Omaha, Aug. 21.—A flapper who admits it.

That's Margaret Shotwell, 16-year-old daughter of a prominent Omaha attorney.

And she's capitalizing on the fact. A "professional flapper" she calls herself.

Margaret inherited $75,000 on the death of a friend of her family. Immediately, she betook herself to Hollywood, capital of movieland. Out there she got a job as a movie extra. And now she's gathering material for her book, "A Flapper's Impressions of the Motion Picture Stars."

Her sister flappers here in Omaha can't hardly wait until it comes out. It will reveal so many things they never knew before! At least, that's the word they received from Margaret. Already the "professional flapper" has interviewed some of the screen's most scintillating lights. No wonder all the bob-haired clientele is so excited nowadays.

The German family which hasn't a few doctors in it is out of luck. Folks starve and die for the title. It is cherished far more than depreciated marks. "Doctor" on the doorplate is a sign for all who enter to step lightly and in a highly dignified manner.

THIEVES VISIT DENTIST OFFICE

Beach, N. D., Aug. 21.—Gold fillings and manufactured plates valued at $150, were taken from the office of Dr. Neice here last week. Most of the gold had been fashioned into bridges for patients. The offices of Drs. Schierbaum and Kinney were ransacked but nothing was taken, and it is believed the thieves were in search of narcotics.

Morton Pioneer Drops Dead

J. W. Hurley, aged 65, resident of Morton county for many years, dropped dead with heart disease about 9 o'clock yesterday morning while assisting in the freezing of ice cream at his drug store at Leith.

Hurley was for a number of years a resident of Almont where he operated a drug store. About eight years ago he moved to Leith, where he has resided since. He had been in excellent health generally although he complained of not resting well Sunday night and Monday morning died very suddenly.

His wife and three children were visiting with relatives in South Dakota and funeral arrangements have been held pending their return.

Mrs. Churchill Claimed by Death

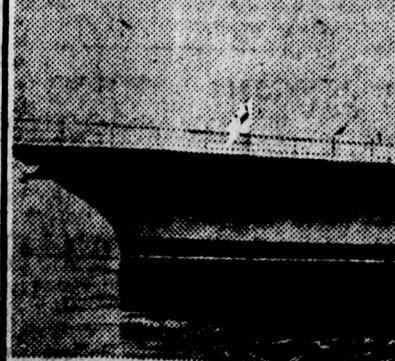

Mrs. Angeline Bell Churchill, aged 87, died at 8:30 Saturday evening of general debility at the home of her daughter Mrs. Alfred Bullamore at Glen Ullin.

Mrs. Churchill, a native of Schokese county, N. Y., had been making her home with her daughter in Glen Ullin for the last nine years. A son residing in Canada, but who could not be located is the only surviving relative, according to undertaker John W. Lutgen of Glen Ullin.

Funeral services were held at 2 p. m. today from the congregational church at Glen Ullin. Rev. Dickey of Fargo being in charge.

R. N. Harmsen of Hazen left from here yesterday for Chicago where he is on a tour.

HARDY HEADS RED CROSS DRIVE IN N. D.

Fargo, Aug. 21.—J. P. Hardy, secretary of the Fargo state fair association, former postmaster and former secretary of the Fargo Commercial club, will direct the annual roll call campaign of the American Red Cross in North Dakota, Oct. 1-15, according to announcement from state headquarters of the Red Cross yesterday.

Mr. Hardy, who has been ill following overwork during the state fair this year, has recovered his health and has consented to assume the leadership in the state campaign.

"The roll call this year will take place during the first two weeks in October," said Mr. Hardy. "The state is already undergoing organization by districts and W. Wessellus and Miss Isabelle Caruthers, representatives of the national organization, have been out in the various centers making preliminary arrangement for the work."

HIGH COURT'S DECISION LAYS DOWN POWERS

Entire Field of Railroad Commission's Regulation

ANSWERS OBJECTIONS

The decision of the supreme court in the case of the Hughes Electric Company of Bismarck, in which the court denied the contention of the utility that the laws are invalid and held that it was constitutional, is the first comprehensive review of the railroad commission's powers and duties made by a tribunal in the state. It settles the powers of the railroad commission over public utilities and states that the constitution provides the powers of such commission shall be as prescribed by statute.

The constitutional objections raised by the attorneys for the utility company were:

1. That there was denial of due process and of equal protection of the laws because the act did not provide for a full and complete hearing before judgment with an opportunity to present all competent and relevant evidence, nor for an adequate judicial review.
2. That there is unwarranted delegation of judicial power to the board of railroad commissioners.
3. That the act contains an unwarranted delegation of legislative powers.
4. That the penalties provided by the act for disobedience of the orders of the commissioners are so severe as to intimidate public utility companies from asserting such orders in the courts, and that consequently the right of judicial review is in effect denied.

Have Court Review
"Relations contend that under Section 24 of the act the board of railroad commissioners may adopt such rules and regulations as will in effect deny a hearing," says the opinion written by Justice Christensen. "It is said that the commissioners may reject relevant and competent evidence; and that inasmuch as the court on appeal is restricted to a consideration of the evidence taken before and certified by the commissioners a party may in effect be denied a hearing according to the law of the land."

"In our opinion the contention is untenable. It will be noted that the legislature has provided that the commissioners can act only after notice and hearing. If the commissioners act without notice in the cases where the law requires it, their act will be void and of no effect." "City Commission v. Bismarck Water Supply Company, supra, this court ruled that an increase in water rates ordered by the commissioners without notice and hearing was void."

The court's opinion said it was not contended that the commissioners had adopted any arbitrary or unreasonable rules and regulations. The legislature in imposing duties and conferring powers upon the commissioners provided that the commissioners must conduct their public hearings after notice and that all parties shall be entitled to be heard and introduce evidence.

"Nor do we think there is any merit in the contention that under section 42 the commissioners are authorized to base their orders upon matters not in evidence, and that hence effective judicial review of the facts may be precluded. The first three sentences in section 42 read:

"The public utilities affected shall be entitled to be heard and to introduce evidence at such hearing or hearings. The commissioners are empowered to resort to any other source of information available. The evidence introduced at such hearing shall be reduced to writing and certified under the seal of the commissioners." "But when this sentence is read in connection with the latter two sentences, and the provisions relating to the review of the evidence on appeal, it is apparent that what the legislature intended was to vest the commissioners with power and to confer upon them the duty to see that the full truth was elicited at such hearing."

Courts Not Limited
The high court did not agree with the contention of the plaintiffs that the courts were limited in review to such evidence as the railroad commission produced in its record. The opinion awarded the district court is given power to entertain appeals from the decisions of the railroad commissioners and that the court is entitled to use whatever instrumentalities are recognized in law as the proper ones to make its power effective."

The court held also that there was not an unwarranted delegation of legislative powers, this being answered by pointing out the provision of the statute stating that "The powers and duties of the . . . Commissioners of railroads . . . shall be as prescribed by law."

The contention was that the act did not lay down in certain particulars, rules and methods for the board to follow. This contention, the court held, was answered by decisions of other courts and the U. S. supreme court. The court also held there was no merit to contentions of the plaintiff with regard to the railroad commission's definition of the terms "unearned increase" or "unearned values" because it was not contended that the railroad body had applied or intended to apply them to the injury of the Hughes company. The same position was taken with regard to the contention of the Hughes company that the penalties permitted under the law for failure to obey the orders of the railroad commission

MAY LOWER MANDAN NOW

Local Officials Discover Error in Tax Reports to State

Complaints were voiced in Mandan last week that the state board of equalization had increased values on Mandan city real estate too greatly. Now, it appears that the state board will make the same complaint.

New figures on the Mandan assessments were submitted to the state board of equalization, after discovery that errors had been made in reporting the valuations of the city of Mandan by local officials in Mandan and Morton county. The figures submitted after the errors were corrected are higher than the amounts set by the state board of equalization when the first reports appeared two weeks ago.

As first reported the value of Mandan residences was placed at $448,000 by the county board of equalization, and the state board raised this to $584,932. The corrected figures of the county board puts the value at $1,684,950, several hundred thousand dollars higher than the state board's figures.

The Morton county officials at first reported business structures at $455,950, but this figure was found in error, and the new value is $500,400. The state board in the meantime had increased the valuation to $547,738.

The original report of the value of town lots was $415,569. The state board raised this to $531,928. The corrected figures of Morton county put the total at $545,523.

It appeared not unlikely that the state board would find the corrected values submitted by the Morton county board too high.

MARKET NEWS TRADE LIGHT ON MARKET

Prices Hover Near Yesterday's Finish at Opening

Chicago, Aug. 21.—Trade in wheat was light at the start today, with prices hovering near yesterday's finish during the early dealings. Liverpool started at an advance, but a reaction soon carried values to about the previous close. There was some scattered commission houses on both sides of the market but indifferent tables had a tendency to check the demand. Opening prices which varied from 1/4c higher to 1/8c lower with 1.08 1/2 to 1.09 1/2 were followed by a slight setback all around and then something of a rally.

Strength in corn and a prediction of frost in parts of Canada helped to uphold wheat values in the late trading. The close was unchanged to 5-8 higher with Dec. $1.04 1/2 to $1.04 5/8 and May $1.09 7/8.

WESTERN CATTLE AND SHEEP FOR FALL MARKET
The U. S. Division of Crop and Livestock Estimates issues the following forecasts of fall market supplies of cattle and sheep based on information collected through its agricultural statisticians in important western states.
Cattle: Arizona, about 110,000 head compared with 112,000 last year and classed as 20,000 fat and 90,000 feeders; California, about 90,000 fat cattle compared with same number last year; Colorado, about 5 per cent more than last year classed as 40 per cent grass fat and 60 per cent stockers and feeders; Kansas, about 200,000 head with 60,000 to move from August 1 to October 31 and grade fat running 65 per cent with 45 per cent as stockers and feeders;

Montana, about 155,000 head classed as 100,000 fat and 55,000 stockers and feeders, older steers will be short but all classes in better condition than for several years. Nebraska, 350,000 head from range section or 12 per cent less than last year with 37 per cent grass fat; Nevada, about 96,000 classed as 47,000 grass fat and 49,000 stockers and feeders; New Mexico, 134,000 head or 30 per cent less than usual and classed as 30 per cent grass fat and 70 per cent stockers and feeders; North Dakota, about 174,000 or 4 per cent less than last year with 31 per cent classed as grass fat and 69 per cent as stockers and feeders; Oklahoma, 658,000 classed as 327,000 fat and 331,000 stockers and feeders; (Ozark country will contribute about 135,000); Oregon, about 269,000 with 53 per cent grass fat; Texas, about 21 per cent less fat cattle than last year and 25 per cent less stockers and feeders; Utah, 128,000 classed as 105,000 grass fat and 23,000 stockers and feeders; Wyoming, about 220,000 compared with 210,000 last year and 50 per cent as grass fat compared with 35 per cent last year.

Sheep: Arizona about 200,000 lambs classed as 50,000 fat compared with 213,000 sheep and lambs last fall, old ewes short this fall; Montana, 681,000 sheep compared with 725,000 last year with lamb movement 7 per cent less than last year and old sheep the same; Nevada, 593,000 sheep and lambs classed as 382,000 fat and 211,000 feeders; New Mexico, about 63,000 sheep and 542,000 lambs compared with 142,000 sheep and 379,000 lambs last year; North Dakota, sheep movement about 10 per cent larger and lamb movement the same as year ago; Texas, fat sheep 17 per cent less than year ago and feeders about 17 per cent less with fat lambs 11 per cent more than last year, when total sheep and lamb movement was 1,300,000. Utah about 300,000 sheep and lambs classed as 863,000 feeders and 627,000 fat; Wyoming, 830,000 sheep and lambs compared with 775,000 last year, lambs placed at 10 per cent less and old sheep 5 per cent more than last year and lambs classed as 55 per cent fat against 45 per cent last year and old sheep 30 per cent fat against 20 per cent last year.

Chicago, Aug. 21.—Feeding of low grade wheat to livestock now in preference to corn was advised today by the joint committee on wheat research of the Wheat Council of the United States and the United States chamber of commerce.
"The present price relationship between wheat and other grains suggests the possibility of feeding the lower grades of wheat to livestock," the committee's statement read.
"The committee has carefully considered data on visible supplies of grain and advised all farmers who can do so to be governed by the present scarcity of corn and to reduce their wheat holdings by feeding low grades and holding only the best for the human market."

SAY BONUS IS UNFAIR BURDEN ON PEOPLE

Industrial Board Declares It Is Economically Un-
sound

New York, Aug. 21.—Opposition to the proposed bonus for World War veterans, on the grounds that it is economically unsound and would impose an unfair burden on taxpayers, is expressed in a report just made public by the National Industrial Conference Board.

The report is the outcome of researches conducted in anticipation of reintroduction of the bonus bills in Congress in December.

"The principle of granting special compensation to special social groups for losses or sacrifices incurred in a common emergency, save the report, 'is unwise and anti-social, and fraught with dangerous possibilities.'"

The findings were reached after consideration of data obtained from the American Legion, the United States Treasury, and other authoritative sources.
"The proposal," the report continues, "cannot be justified on grounds of equity and fairness to the veterans or to the general population, while it would lay upon the country a financial burden which would adversely affect the interests of the nation as well as of the veterans and might tend to hamper the nation's necessary efforts in behalf of the incapacitated veterans at present and the needy and aged veterans of the future."

The report estimates the probable cost of the bonus at $4,000,000,000, and adds that the proposal "wholly ignores" the $350,000,000 already received by some veterans in State bonuses.

"Direct comparison between service men and civilians is false," it asserts, "because the factors on which such a comparison must be made cannot be evaluated in economic terms. They were an inevitable consequence of war and were the result of the chance of selection for service. Those at home were equally subject to this chance by virtue of the selective draft."

Reviewing the argument that the bonus is an economic need, the investigators told that on this basis the bonus could not be justified in asking adjusted compensation.

EARLY THRESHING SHOWS
FAIR YIELD NEAR HOPE
Hope, N. D., Aug. 21.—A heavy rain Thursday stopped threshing in this territory. The crews were forced to lay off until the shocks could dry. Rigs may be able to resume today.

All outfits are now threshing and the grain has started to come to the elevators.

The yield is still a matter of speculation as only a small amount has been threshed. However, some of the crops in the yield in this territory will not come up to last year's yield. To offset this statement one farmer threshed a piece of Kola wheat that went 20 bushels to the acre.

Thus far there has been an abundance of labor here and the going wage has been from $3.50 to $4 a day for threshing.

Oyster Shells Bring Rich Crops for Farmers

Burning and grinding oyster shells into a powder to make plants grow, is a growing industry of the South. A recent scarcity of nitrates forced farmers to look for some other fertilizer, and they adopted the oyster. To use something that lives at the bottom of the sea, the food of a starfish, for improving land seemed impossible at first, but in the powdered shells were found qualities that enriched the soil and so they are now being widely used. The shells are burned on a grate over a roaring fire. They are hauled by wheelbarrow to a conveyor which carries them to the place called a pulverizer, where they are mashed and ground into fine dust, ready for the farmer. This recently developed industry has brought oyster hunting to a state where it is said to be more profitable than any other kind of fishing.

Change Golf-Club Weight to Suit the Player

To enable the weight of a golf club to be instantly adjusted to suit the player, one manufacturer has inserted removable pieces of lead in the head of the stick. As changes may be made during the game, this does away with the need of carrying several drivers or brasses in the bag so as to have a variety to select from in meeting various situations.

Slight changes in the weights of the clubs also have proved useful when the player feels out of form.

TOUR AMERICA

Bayreuth, Bavaria, Aug. 21.—Grandfather, father and son will be represented on the programs which Siegfried Wagner will direct in his American tour beginning in New York next January. His concerts will consist of compositions by Liszt, who was Siegfried Wagner's maternal grandfather, of the works of his father, Richard Wagner, and of his own contributions to the wealth of classic music which has been created by the group of which he is the last living representative.

Siegfried Wagner has signed agreements to conduct concerts in New York, Philadelphia, Boston, Chicago, Cincinnati, San Francisco and several other cities for the purpose of raising funds for the restoration of the Bayreuth Wagnerian Festivals next year. He will conduct the local symphony orchestras in the cities named, and in addition engagements will be made for him to direct these orchestras in neighboring cities.

Wagner also will conduct the first performance of his own opera, "Die Baerenhaute", to be given at the Manhattan Opera House in New York January 29 by the Wagnerian Opera Company, which visited America last season. This company will

Lions Tamed by Electricity Instead of With Whip

As a more effective means of training lions that eventually perform in the rings of a circus, lion tamers are reported to favor an electrically charged wire instead of the whip. When a beast has just begun its education, it often attempts to attack the instructor when his back is turned. Formerly the trainer's security was in keeping a sharp watch over his shoulder and striking out with the heavy piece of leather when the animal jumped at him. But now a charged wire is stretched across the cage, and when the beast touches it, it receives a lesson that leaves a deeper impression than a blow.

Temporary Wire Fence for "Hogging Down" Corn

The drawing shows the construction of a temporary fence for "hogging down" corn or other forage crops on a farm. Each stake is made from a length of pipe, which is fastened at one end so that it can be easily driven into the ground. A number of holes are drilled in the pipe, in pairs, at equal distances apart, and a small loop made of wire is inserted into each. The wire fence is then stretched in the usual way, and a long straight piece of heavy wire is slipped down through the small loops to hold the fence in place. With this arrangement the fence may be put up or taken down in a very short time.

HIGH COURT'S DECISION LAYS DOWN POWERS

Entire Field of Railroad Commission's Regulation

ANSWERS OBJECTIONS

The constitutional objections raised by the attorneys for the utility company were:

1. That there was denial of due process and of equal protection of the laws because the act did not provide for a full and complete hearing before judgment with an opportunity to present all competent and relevant evidence, nor for an adequate judicial review.

2. That there is unwarranted delegation of judicial power to the board of railroad commissioners.

3. That the act contains an unwarranted delegation of legislative powers.

4. That the penalties provided by the act for disobedience of the orders of the commissioners are so severe as to intimidate public utility companies from asserting their rights in the courts, and that consequently the right of judicial review is in effect denied.

Have Court Review
"Relators contend that under Section 24 of the act the board of railroad commissioners may adopt such rules and regulations as will in effect deny a hearing," says the opinion written by Justice Christianson. "It is said that the commissioners may reject relevant and competent evidence; and that inasmuch as the court on appeal is restricted to a consideration of the evidence taken before and certified by the commissioners a party may in effect be denied a hearing according to the law of the land."

"In our opinion the contention is untenable. It will be noted that the legislature has provided that the commissioners can act only after notice and hearing. If the commissioners act without notice in the cases where the law requires it, their act will be void and of no effect. In City Commission v. Bismarck Water Supply Company, supra, this court ruled that an increase in water rates ordered by the commissioners without notice and hearing was void."

The court's opinion said it was not contented that the commissioners had adopted any arbitrary or unreasonable rules and regulations. The legislature in imposing duties and conferring powers upon the commissioners provided that the commissioners must conduct their public hearings after notice and that all parties shall be entitled to be heard and introduce evidence.

"Nor do we think there is any merit in the contention that under section 42 the commissioners are authorized to base their orders upon matters not in evidence, and that hence effective judicial review of the facts may be precluded. The first three sentences in section 42 read: 'The public utilities affected shall be entitled to be heard and to introduce evidence at such hearing or hearings. The commissioners are empowered to resort to any other source of information available. The evidence introduced at such hearing shall be reduced to writing and certified under the seal of the commissioners.' Relators' objection is leveled at the second sentence. But when this sentence is read in connection with the latter two sentences, and the provisions relating to the review of the evidence on appeal, it is apparent that what the legislature intended was to vest the commissioners with power and to confer upon them the duty to see that the full truth was elicited at such hearing."

Courts Not Limited

The high court did not agree with the contention of the plaintiffs that the courts were limited in review to such evidence as the railroad commission produced in its record. The opinion declared the district court is given power to entertain appeals from the decisions of the railroad commissioners and that the court is entitled to use whatever instrumentalities are recognized in law as the proper ones to make its power effective."

The court held also that there was not an unwarranted delegation of legislative powers, this being answered by pointing out the provision of the statute stating that "The powers and duties of the . . . Commissioners of railroads . . . shall be as prescribed by law."

The contention was that the act did not lay down in certain particulars, rules and methods for the board to follow. This contention, the court held, was answered by decisions of other courts and the U. S. supreme court.

The court also held there was no merit to contentions of the plaintiff with regard to the railroad commission's definition of the terms "unearned increment" or "unearned values" because it was not contended that the railroad body had applied or intended to apply them to the injury of the Hughes company. The same position was taken with regard to the contention of the Hughes company that the penalties permitted under the law for failure to obey the orders of the railroad commission were too severe. If the penalties were void this would not void the rest of the act, it was said.

MAY LOWER MANDAN NOW

Local Officials Discover Error
in Tax Reports to State

Complaints were voiced in Mandan last week that the state board of equalization had increased values on Mandan city real estate too greatly. Now, it appears that the state board will make the same complaint.

New figures on the Mandan assessments were submitted to the state board of equalization, after discovery that errors had been made in reporting the valuations of the city of Mandan by local officials in Mandan and Morton county. The figures submitted after the errors were corrected are higher than the amounts set by the state board of equalization when the first reports appeared two low.

As first reported the value of Mandan residences was placed at $448,300 by the county board of equalization, and the state board raised this valuation to $384,262. The corrected figure of the county board puts the value at $1,686,950, several hundred thousand dollars higher than the state board's figures.

The Morton county officials at first reported business structures at $455,950, but this figure was found in error, and the new value is $500,400. The state board in the meantime had increased the valuation to $547,738.

The original report of the value of town lots was $415,969. The state board raised this to $331,938. The corrected figures of Morton county put the total at $945,523.

It appeared not unlikely that the state board would find the corrected values submitted by the Morton county board too high.

Chicago, Aug. 21.—Feeding of low grade wheat to livestock now in preference to corn was advised today by the joint committee on wheat research of the Wheat Council of the United States and the United States chamber of commerce.

"The present price relationship between wheat and other grains during the possibility of a shortage of the lower grades of wheat to livestock," the committee's statement read.

SAY BONUS IS UNFAIR BURDEN ON PEOPLE

Industrial Board Declares It
sound

New York, Aug. 21.—Opposition to the proposed bonus for World War veterans, on the grounds that it is economically unsound and would impose an unfair burden on taxpayers, was expressed in a report just made public by the National Industrial Conference Board.

The report is the outcome of researches conducted in anticipation of reintroduction of the bonus bills in Congress in December.

"The principle of granting special compensation to special social groups for losses or sacrifices incurred in a common emergency," says the report, "is unwise and anti-social, and fraught with dangerous possibilities."

The findings were reached after consideration of data obtained from the American Legion, the United States Treasury, and other authoritative sources.

"The proposal," the report continues, "cannot be justified on grounds of equity and fairness to the veterans or to the general population, while it would lay upon the country a financial burden which would adversely affect the interests of the nation as well as of the veterans, and might tend to hamper the nation's necessary efforts in behalf of the incapacitated veterans at present and the needy and aged veterans of the future."

The report estimates the probable cost of the bonus at $4,000,000,000, and adds that the proposal "wholly ignores" the $350,000,000 already received by some veterans in State bonuses.

"Direct comparison between service men and civilians is false," it asserts, "because the factors on which such a comparison must be made cannot be evaluated in economic terms. They were an inevitable consequence of war and were the result of the chance of selection for service. Those at home were equally subject to this chance by virtue of the selective draft."

Reviewing the argument that the bonus is an economic need, the investigators hold that on this grounds other classes whose earnings did not equal war-time living costs would be equally justified in asking adjusted compensation.

EARLY THRESHING SHOWS
FAIR YIELD NEAR HOPE

Hope, N. D., Aug. 21.—A heavy rain Thursday morning, resulting in this territory. The crews were forced to lay off until the shocks could dry. Rigs may be able to resume today.

All outfits are now threshing and the grain has started to come to the elevators. The yield is still a matter of speculation as only a small amount has been threshed. However some threshers state the yield in this territory will not come up to last year's yield. To offset this statement one farmer threshed a piece of wheat that went 20 bushels to the acre.

Thus far there has been an abundance of labor here and the going wage has been from $3.50 to $4 a day for threshing.

Oyster Shells Bring Rich Crops for Farmers

Burning and grinding oyster shells into a powder to make plants grow, is a growing industry of the South. A recent scarcity of nitrates forced farmers to look for some other fertilizer, and they adopted the oyster. To use something that lives at the bottom of the sea, the food of a starfish, for improving land seemed impossible at first, but in the powdered shells were found qualities that enriched the soil and so they are now being widely used. The shells are burned on a grate over a roaring fire. They are hauled by wheelbarrow to a conveyor which carries them to a place called a pulverizer, where they are mashed and ground into fine dust, ready for the farmer. This recently developed industry has brought oyster hunting to a state where it is said to be more profitable than any other kind of fishing.

Change Golf-Club Weight to Suit the Player

To enable the weight of a golf club to be instantly adjusted to suit the player, one manufacturer has inserted removable pieces of lead in the head of the stick. As changes may be made during the game, this does away with the need of carrying several drivers or brassies in the bag so as to have a variety to select from in meeting various situations.

Slight changes in the weights of the clubs also have proved useful when the player feels out of form.

Three Generations Will Be Represented on Program

TOUR AMERICA

Bayreuth, Bavaria, Aug. 21.—Grandfather, father and son will be represented on the programs which Siegfried Wagner will direct in his American tour beginning in New York next January. His concerts will consist of compositions by Liszt, who was Siegfried Wagner's maternal grandfather, of the works of his father, Richard Wagner, and of his own contributions to the wealth of classic music which has been created by the group of which he is the last living representative.

Siegfried Wagner has signed agreements to conduct concerts in New York, Philadelphia, Boston, Chicago, Cincinnati, San Francisco and several other cities for the purpose of raising funds for the restoration of the Bayreuth Wagnerian Festivals next year. He will conduct the local symphony orchestras in the cities named, and in addition engagements will be made for him to direct these orchestras in neighboring cities.

Wagner also will conduct the first performance of his own opera, "Die Baerenhaute", to be given at the Manhattan Opera House in New York January 29 by the Wagnerian Opera Company, which visited America last season. This company will Walkout of ?

Lions Tamed by Electricity Instead of With Whip

As a more effective means of training lions that eventually perform in the rings of a circus, lion tamers are reported to favor an electrically charged wire instead of the whip. When a beast has just begun its education, it often attempts to attack the instructor when his back is turned. Formerly the trainer's security was in keeping a sharp watch over his shoulder and striking out with the heavy piece of leather when the animal jumped at him. But now a charged wire is stretched across the cage, and when the beast touches it, it receives a lesson that leaves a deeper impression than a blow.

Temporary Wire Fence for "Hogging Down" Corn

The drawing shows the construction of a temporary fence for "hogging down" corn or other forage crops on a farm. Each stake is made from a length of pipe, which is flattened at one end so that it can be easily driven into the ground. A number of holes are drilled in the pipe, in pairs, at equal distances apart, and a small loop made of wire is inserted into each. The wire fence is then stretched in the usual way, and a long straight piece of heavy wire is slipped down through the small loops to hold the fence in place. With this arrangement the fence may be put up or taken down in a very short time.

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER
(Established 1873)

LAW IS UPHELD

Now that the hands of the railroad commission are freed by the supreme court, hearings involving heat and electric rates can go forward. Just before the injunction was served, an accountant for the commission reported that some rates charged by the local utility were in excess of a reasonable return on the investment.

There should be no delay now in a hearing and a decision upon steam, light and power rates so that some relief can be granted during the winter months when the consumption is heaviest. Users of heat are entitled to a material reduction in their rates. In fact the entire rate schedule as charged by the local utility should be the subject of a most searching analysis.

The action of the supreme court in upholding the law was generally expected for the injunction was brought largely to forestall an investigation of rates which of course now should be all the more vigorously prosecuted.

NOT ALL GLOOM

Reports from various Slope sections hardly justify the gloomy predictions and lamentations heard about the crop situation. There are some fine wheat fields in this vicinity; probably the best corn crop in years and the farmer who has diversified his crop is not as badly off as the chronic pessimist would have us believe.

Recently in a small town in Ohio where a stock sale was held some 243 farmers attended and total sales netted nearly $200,000. This indicated a purchasing power in a section where the farmers have ceased to gamble with Dame Nature on a one crop ante.

Reports from several sections indicate a shortage of dairy products, indicating a favorable demand for these commodities. The farmer who is milking a few cows, has some hogs and is not neglectful of chicken and turkey raising has a purchasing power far beyond the neighbor who clings to his one crop idea, always waiting for the bonanza year which according to the law of averages comes too seldom to make that kind of agriculture profitable.

Often the solution for an untoward economic situation lies closer home than the politicians would have us believe. Governmental action has in the main complicated rather than solved economic ills. Two factors at least contribute more directly than any others to the farmer's plight today; high labor costs and the condition of the world markets as far as his commodities are concerned. Legislative action to date has been powerless to cope with these economic forces, but the business horizon at that is much brighter than a year ago.

THE UNDERWORLD

Crime costs the American people more than three billion dollars a year—or roughly $30 for every man, woman and child.

This is the estimate by the National Surety Company, which bonds employees who handle money—cashiers, treasurers, etc.

It's only part of the real bill, of course, for it covers only the visible or reported crimes. Petty thefts, which never get publicity, never are called to attention of public officials, must mount up to a staggering sum each year.

What do you think is the most costly form of crime? Stock frauds, answers Cromwell, president of New York Stock Exchange. He figures that swindling by the sale of securities costs the American people a billion dollars a year, or a third of the total cost of crime.

Fraudulent bankruptcies get away with 400 million dollars a year.

Based on police estimates, the national loss from burglary, larceny and general petty thefts is only 250 million dollars a year.

That is amazing—burglars and other thieves getting away with only a fourth as much as the stock swindlers.

Embezzlers make off with 100 million dollars a year. Forgers get about the same. A fourth of this amount covers railroad freight thefts.

Bonding companies' books show that between 1910 and 1922 the losses from burglaries increased 1200 per cent, while embezzlements jumped 500 per cent. These figures are based on money losses. The average criminal "job," of course, involves more money than it used to. Putting it on a straight dollars-and-cents basis, and eliminating moral considerations, the theft of $200 today is equivalent to the theft of $100 before the war.

Even thieves have to figure on the increased cost of living.

A prominent expert attributes the increase in financial crimes to discontent, envy, unemployment, desire for luxury beyond earning capacity, carelessness of people whose funds are stolen, unfairly low pay, and "widespread disrespect for property rights and law, caused partly by the World War."

That last reason may be the most important one. Comparing the national crime bill with the total income of the American people, about $1 in each $15 or $20 that is produced by honest effort is stolen by the parasites.

WIGS

Bruno Leo Schurig, hairdresser, who claims he selects the toupees for the elder John D. Rockefeller, returns from Europe with this news: So many wig makers were killed in Germany and France, during the war, that wig making has become a highly exclusive profession.

Judging from the amount of time devoted to care of the hair, especially by women, this is important news. Hair is the most stubborn survivor of the vanity inherited from long generations of savage ancestors. If we were truly sanitary, and less vain, we'd all keep our heads clipped or shaved. The theory that bald headedness is an indication of superior civilization probably was started by a bald-headed man who either had a sense of humor or was kidding himself.

Editorial Review

AN UNFAIR SYSTEM

During the past week we have viewed the terrible ravages of the storm that swept through a part of this county. A most terrible sight to the eye, a sight such as cannot be pictured by words.

When such storms have caused a person damage, the natural query is: did he have insurance? and if not we call him a foolish man. But a strange situation has arisen, no we have always had it, but not until the storm of Friday evening had done its awful work, did we realize the seriousness. A man insures his crop against hail in the early part of the summer and if he suffers a loss before cutting, he will receive compensation. But a man who insures his crop and is not haled out until after cutting, receives nothing for his money invested. It seems strange that simply because the latter party has invested a little more money and labor in his crop, he should be denied compensation after suffering a loss, but such is the case under the present system of insurance.

We cannot see where there is any greater risk to grain that is cut and shocked than to grain that is standing—rather there is more likelihood that the grain standing will suffer a greater loss from hail. Insurance should be provided whereby the grain can be protected up to the time of threshing. Under the present system, losses which befall the farmers as a result of the recent storm cannot be removed. La Moure County Chronicle.

MAGNUS MAGNIFIES

The newly elected senator from Minnesota, Magnus Johnson, dons the robes of a prophet of gloom. He sees revolution if conditions are not changed. Magnus finds that "65 per cent of the wealth of the country is in the hands of 2 per cent of the population" and "unless there is a better distribution of this wealth the common people are going to revolt against it."

What is wealth, Magnus? Is it in homes, where people have more than elsewhere? In this country 11,000,000 families hold deeds to their homes. Is it in motor cars, the chariots of the modern Rome? Eleven million families own their own automobiles and 11,000,000 more are saving up to buy a gas buggy. Is it in savings bank accounts? Thirteen million families have these and their footings run to nearly $10,000,000,000.

In Magnus' own state, three families own their own homes, every two families that rent. Are these house owners, these motor car owners, these savings bank depositors going to join in a revolution whose object is the distribution of wealth? Is Farmer Magnus Johnson, owner of one of the largest and finest Gothic barns in Minnesota, going to make war in order that this barn be distributed among those who haven't barns?

Two per cent of the population is not eating 65 per cent of the green corn and cherry pie these days. It is not catching 65 per cent of the bass or swimming 65 per cent of the swims. It is not seeing 65 per cent of the motion pictures or dancing 65 per cent of the jazz steps. If we should have our plums into percentages we should say that 98 per cent of the people, including Magnus, have 100 per cent of the joy—and therefore the wealth of the world.—New York Herald.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

"DING, dong, ding dong!" went the school bell in Fee Wee Land. Nancy and Nick heard it the minute they turned the corner.

"Good lands! What's that for, do you s'pose?" cried Nancy. "There's no school now. This is vacation."

"Hurry up!" said Nick, starting to run. "Maybe there's a fire."

But there wasn't any more fire than there is in the refrigerator, my dears. However, there was quite as much excitement as if there had been forty fires.

King Snookums was rushing about, and every Fee Wee was rushing and dodging in all the houses and down all the holes and up all the bushes and weeds and everywhere.

The Twins knew the trouble at once. "Somebody's lost, I'll bet you anything," said Nancy.

And that's what it was. Little Paul Pry Fee Wee was gone.

"What's everybody making such a fuss about?" demanded Nick. "You don't ring bells when the other Fee Wees are lost."

"Oh, but that's different," declared Mrs. Pry, Paul's mother. "They're not my Paul. He's the most inquisitive boy in Fee Wee Land and I never get a minute's peace with him poking around. I'm sure he's down the well, or something. Oh, my poor Polly Pry Fee Wee."

"We'll have to hunt," said Nancy. "We have good luck finding things, so don't worry. We'll get him. Come on Nick."

The Twins looked everywhere, and were just about to give up when they passed Farmer Brown's mouse trap near the oat-bin. Then they heard a faint voice calling.

"Goodness alive! There's somebody in the mouse trap," said Nancy. "Peep in, Nick, but be careful."

So Nick stuck in his head. "Hello! Hello, Paul Pry Fee Wee," Nancy heard him say. "How did you get here?"

"I wanted to see how it worked," answered the Fee Wee boy faintly. "I hardly touched it at all when it snapped down on my foot. I can't move."

The Twins worked like tailors and by 'n' by Paul Pry was set free. "Oh, thank you," he cried, limping off toward home. "I'll never monkey with anything again. I'm cured."

NEARING THE END?

PRESCOTT TO SYDNEY
CARTON.

I didn't have more than time to just ask you to be godfather to my new son when I sent you that clipping and, besides, it seemed to me rather terrible to bring Paula's name into the letter in which I told you about Leslie's being so near death.

I'm awfully glad Paula has gone out to Hollywood. I think she will make a great success in moving pictures and God knows I wish her everything good that life might bring to her.

I suppose according to our grandmothers I should despise poor little Paula, but contrarily I only despise myself. Will we ever get this sex idea, as it should be, on a single standard?

The only sin that Paula Perier ever committed was in loving me too much, Syd, and although the prudes and prunes might criticize her greatly, I only feel that I should ask her forgiveness.

Isn't it strange, Syd, that I am taking in my arms every day a child of unknown parentage and finding that child is growing very closely into my heart, while my own child I probably will never look upon.

No, Syd, I do not think I could be big enough to bring my own child into my house under the circumstances you speak about. Certainly I could not do it without telling Leslie and I am too big a coward to tell her that, too much afraid of losing her love.

When I think of it now, I think the Fates have been pretty good to me after all. Leslie trusts and respects me and I am pretty sure that Paula is going to be no worse because of her experience.

Indeed some people will tell you that it takes a great tragedy and a great heartbreak to make a great actress either on the stage or on the screen.

I wish you could see this baby, Syd. He is a peach and, would you believe it, Leslie's mother insists that he looks like me. She says he has that same queer little twisted smile which ends in wrinkles in the nose that I have.

Until she called my attention to it, I never knew that I wrinkled my nose when I smiled. Babies, however, must all have that same little physical idiosyncrasy, for I remember you told me that Paula's baby had it. I thought you were crazy when you said it was like me.

I am bucking down to work with a few words. While Leslie was so ill I could do nothing, but now I have much more to live for than ever before.

Leslie is going out motoring with me for the first time tomorrow and I expect Mrs. Hamilton will be leaving very soon for home.

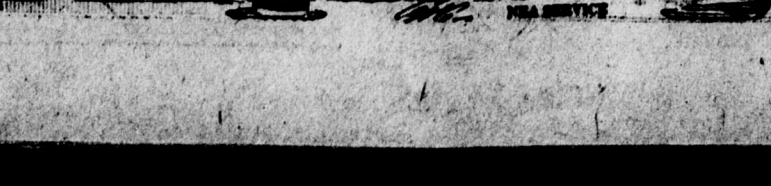

By the way, my own mother is taking my adoption of a child very tragically. More so perhaps because that everlasting old maid, Priscilla Bradford, is with her than she would if she were alone.

What an awful nuisance an old woman of Puritanical standards and no humor can make of herself.

THE YELLOW SEVEN
The Barrier
Of Fire

NEA Service, Inc. 1923

By Edmund Snell.

This unusual series of stories deals with the exploits of "Chinese" Pennington, a detective sent by his government to British North Borneo to run to earth The Yellow Seven, a gang of Chinese bandits.

Enid Bromley—dark, small-featured and effective, dropped her racket on to the grass and sank into a chair by Hewitt's side.

"I'm afraid I gave you an awful let-down in the last set," she murmured. "I'm rightfully sorry."

"Captain John Hewitt—Commissioner of Police at Jesselton, B. N. B.—passed a hand through his dark hair. "Not at all," he returned gallantly. "Just fancy," put in Monica. "She says she hasn't touched a racket for 18 months. You look tired, Mr. Dawson. She's right."

"Did you catch your bandit?" Dawson had turned again and was gazing down the slope toward the palm-clad shores of the bay.

"Not altogether," he confessed. Enid looked puzzled.

"Dawson's endeavoring to achieve the impossible," broke in the Commissioner, "shall be trying an appeal deep! Taken on the whole, Borneo's a nice, comfortable little place; but for some time past we've been having trouble with an Oriental who calls himself Chai-Hung. Pennington and Dawson set out together to round up the Yellow Seven—that's the somewhat picturesque title of the gang. Chai-Hung was too clever for them but, in the sort of general mix-up, his second-in-command was put out of action together with several of his immediate bodyguard. To all intents and purposes, Chai-Hung controls the movements of every Chinaman on the island."

"Isn't that rather serious? I believe father said that all his coolies were Chinese."

"The majority of managers employ Chinese labor. The allegiance of the more scattered tribes of the organization is fortunately passive, but so great is their fear of the bandit himself and the little yellow card with the seven black dots, that they would think twice before disobeying his commands."

"Jack," said Monica, touching her brother's sleeve, "when you've finished frightening Miss Bromley with tales of your brigand, do you think you could muster up energy to order something with ice in it?"

The Commissioner started to his feet. "By Jove! I'm fearfully sorry. Come along, Dawson."

The two men mounted the wooden stairs together and passed through an open doorway, making their way toward the general room in which the bar was situated.

Hewitt had just completed the order for his sister and Enid Bromley and was turning in search of Dawson, when his eye lit upon two long legs protruding from the lower portion of a long chair. He crossed the intervening space on tiptoe. The occupant of the chair beamed up at him.

"Hullo, old son! I was wondering when you were going to turn up."

"Peter," returned the Commissioner reproachfully, "if you have lost every shred of respect for regulations—and myself, you might at least have had the decency to report your arrival to Monica!"

The man with the Chinese eyes remained unmoved. "I called at the bungalow—but your orderly informed me you were eating the air! I came on here to find you absorbed in a game of tennis."

"Hullo, you old devil!" greeted Dawson.

Pennington rose wearily. "They converged around a bamboo table and a Chinese boy set a tray in front of them."

"What d'you think of her? Not bad, eh?"

"She's not bad," conceded Pennington. "Bit of a head minner. Not feeling smitten, I hope?"

Hewitt changed the subject abruptly. "How's the Yellow Seven affair proceeding?"

"You know we settled Nui-Iau—the fellow responsible for looting a train?"

Miss Anderson Gives Farewell Party for Misses Goreski, Barr

A farewell party was given by Miss Mary Anderson at the Business and Professional Women's club room yesterday evening honoring Misses Eliza Barr of the state department of education, and Miss Stasia Goreski, bookkeeper at the Bismarck Grocery company, who expect to leave Sept. 1 for Seattle, Wash., where they will make their future home.

Japanese lanterns, parasols, and streamers and baskets of nasturtium transformed the club room into a very pretty setting for the party. Fifteen of the young ladies' friends attended the party to wish their friends prosperity in their new home.

Games were a part of the entertainment of the evening. In a drawing contest, Miss Nellie Smith was the victor, being the recipient of a pin for having produced the most realistic elephant. A pleasing part of the evening's entertainment consisted of a Colonial dance given by Misses Bernice Joslyn and Ardye Gussner who assisted the hostess when refreshments were served.

Sleeveless Jacket

The sleeveless jacket blazes its brilliant way through the summer-fashionable, comfortable and often the one distinctive note of color to a summer costume.

With a few simple white frocks or combinations of skirt and blouse and several colored sleeveless sweaters, any young woman may consider herself well dressed while hot weather lasts.

All manner of fabrics and colors have been used for these jackets—the climatic, the color of one's eyes, the preference of one's husband, any of these is adequate to determine whether white leather trimmed with red, or black velvet, or linen crêpe, or red flannel should be one's choice.

The jackets are worn with white almost exclusively, though occasionally a hat to match the coat adds the touch of individuality to a costume.

F. Trepp for the past year has returned to her home at Wembleton.

MRS. EBERT HOSTESS

Mrs. George Ebert of Ninth street was hostess this afternoon at a party in honor of Miss Miriam Taylor of La Moure who is visiting with her aunt, Miss Leila Diesem. MRS. OBERG'S MOTHER DIES

Succumbs After Short Illness Due to Grippe and Complications

Mrs. F. A. Sandgren of Minneapolis, Minn., aged 69, mother of Mrs. Jack Oberg, Bismarck, died at her home yesterday morning at 7:15 o'clock, after a short illness due to grippe and complications. Mrs. Oberg who had returned two weeks ago from a two months visit with her mother was called back there Sunday by news of her serious illness. Mrs. Sandgren had been ailing some during the winter but appeared to be much improved until the last few days. She will be remembered by some people of this city, for she visited at the Oberg home at various times.

Mrs. Sandgren was a devout member of the Swedish Lutheran church. She is survived by her husband, four daughters, Mrs. Oberg of Bismarck, Mrs. Wm. Edberg of Minneapolis, Minn., who resides next door to her mother, Emma and Ruby Sandgren and a number of grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held from the Swedish Lutheran church Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Mr. Oberg will leave this evening for the Twin Cities to attend the funeral.

Mrs. Mason was born at St. Sylvester, near Quebec, Canada, August 18, 1855. She had been a devout member of the Catholic church at Jamestown and a member of the Catholic Order of Foresters, and the Degree of Honor during her years of residence there.

She leaves to mourn her death her husband, three sons, James, Philip and Dan J., and one daughter, Mrs. Frank La Fond of Jamestown; one sister, Mrs. Breen of Bismarck; and an older brother, Michael Patton of North Stratford, New Hampshire.

Funeral services will be held from the Catholic church at Jamestown Thursday morning.

AT THE MOVIES

THE ELTINGE

"Penrod and Sam" from Booth Tarkington's story is the feature at the Eltinge theatre for Wednesday and Thursday.

"Penrod and Sam" is filled with screaming funny situations, due to the propensity of Penrod and his chum, Sam, to get into mischief of all kinds. But there are also touches of pathos which bring tears to the eyes and a clutch at the heart.

AT THE CAPITOL

"Look Your Best," is the title of Goldwyn's newest Rupert Hughes photoplay which comes to the Capitol theatre for two days, beginning tonight. It has all of the humanity, the appeal, the sense of comedy and the dramatic action that have characterized this author-director's previous pictures. It is filled with the brilliant characterizing comedy touches which make a Hughes picture so satisfying.

INSIDE SLEEVES

A narrow inside sleeve of crepe or net worn inside the wide flaring is one of the new wrinkles noticed on the fall frocks.

BRACELETS OUTSIDE

In Paris, bracelets are worn outside the carelessly wrinkled gloves which never make any pretense at coming more than a few inches above the wrist.

DARING COLORS

WIDE FRINGE

One sees many very distinctive frocks of black satin with no trimming save a wide fringe about the feet. Large black velvet hats are the inevitable accompaniment.

WAVERING WAISTLINE

Designers are at odds over the correct position for the waistline on coming cool weather costumes. Put it anywhere between the extremely low hipline and the natural waistline and you'll be correct.

AUTUMN COLORS

Prominent colors for this fall will be smoke gray, seal brown, beaver, sailor blue, camel's hair and terracotta.

Future Prosperity

Agriculture, as the basic industry of the Northwest, must be conducted on a paying basis if other lines of endeavor are to prosper. Its general condition is the touchstone of business prosperity since the degree of success attained on the farm is reflected in a proportionate measure in all other business.

Therefore, anything that tends to raise the prosperity level and the general welfare of our agricultural population should have the intelligent interest and active support of every citizen, if actuated no more than by a desire to benefit himself.

Such matters as diversification, particularly hogs and corn, soil improvement, scientific breeding of stock, and improved dairying are vitally important to the future welfare and development of this community.

SOVIETS ALTER COAT OF ARMS
London, Aug. 21.—The All-Russian Soviet Executive, according to a London message, has decided to alter once more the coat of arms of the Russian Soviet Republic.

For the last few months the coat of arms consisted of a crossed sickle and hammer, but now this gives way to a more elaborate design which represents the same sickle and hammer crossed in the background of a globe representing the earth and surrounded by a wreath of wheat with the words: "Workers of the World, Unite" transcribed in Russian, French, English, German, Arabic and Chinese.

MRS. OBERG'S MOTHER DIES

Succumbs After Short Illness Due to Grippe and Complications

Mrs. F. A. Sandgren of Minneapolis, Minn., aged 69, mother of Mrs. Jack Oberg, of Bismarck, died at her home yesterday morning at 7:15 o'clock, after a short illness due to grippe and complications. Mrs. Oberg who had returned two weeks ago from a two months visit with her mother was called back there Sunday by news of her serious illness. Mrs. Sandgren had been ailing some during the winter but appeared to be much improved until the last few days. She will be remembered by some people of this city, for she visited at the Oberg home at various times.

Mrs. Sandgren was a devout member of the Swedish Lutheran church. She is survived by her husband, four daughters, Mrs. Oberg of Bismarck, Mrs. Wm. Edberg of Minneapolis, Minn., who resides next door to her mother, Emma and Ruby Sandgren and Frank, who all reside at home at 4235 Fremont avenue North.

Funeral services will be held from the Swedish Lutheran church Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Oberg will leave this evening for the Twin Cities to attend the funeral.

MRS. P. MASON DIES SUDDENLY

Funeral Services Will Be Held Thursday Morning at Catholic Church

Mrs. Philip Mason, resident of Jamestown since 1881, and sister of Mrs. William E. Breen of near Bismarck, died yesterday afternoon following a short illness due to pneumonia. She was 70 years old. Mrs. Breen was called to the bedside of her sister Sunday.

Mrs. Mason was born at St. Sylvester, near Quebec, Canada, August 18, 1853. She had been a devout member of the Catholic church at Jamestown and a member of the Catholic Order of Foresters, and the Degree of Honor during her years of residence there.

She leaves to mourn her death her husband, three sons, James, Philip and Dan J., and one daughter, Mrs. Frank La Fond of Jamestown; one sister, Mrs. Breen of Bismarck; and an older brother, Michael Patton of North Stratford, New Hampshire. Funeral services will be held from the Catholic church at Jamestown Thursday morning.

AT THE MOVIES
"Penrod and Sam" from Booth Tarkington's story is the feature at the Eltinge theatre for Wednesday and Thursday.

"Penrod and Sam" is filled with screamingly funny situations, due to the propensity of Penrod and his chum, Sam, to get into mischief of all kinds. But there are also, touches of pathos which bring tears to the eyes and a clutch at the heart.

AT THE CAPITOL
"Look Your Best," is the title of Goldenrod's newest Euphoric Hughes photoplay which comes to the Capitol theatre for two days, beginning tonight. It has all of the humanity, the appeal, the sense of comedy and the dramatic action that have characterized this author-director's previous pictures. It is filled with the brilliant characterizing comedy touches which make a Hughes picture so satisfying.

A narrow inside sleeve of crepe or net worn inside the wide flaring is one of the new wrinkles noticed on the fall frocks.

BRACELETS OUTSIDE

DARING COLORS

WIDE FRINGE

Future Prosperity

Agriculture, as the basic industry of the Northwest, must be conducted on a paying basis if other lines of endeavor are to prosper. Its general condition is the touchstone of business prosperity since the degree of success attained on the farm is reflected in a proportionate measure in all other business.

Therefore, anything that tends to raise the prosperity level and the general welfare of our agricultural population should have the intelligent interest and active support of every citizen, if actuated no more than by a desire to benefit himself.

Such matters as diversification, particularly hogs and corn, soil improvement, scientific breeding of stock, and improved dairying are vitally important to the future welfare and development of this community.

SOVIETS ALTER COAT OF ARMS
London, Aug. 21.—The All-Russian Soviet Executive, according to a London message, has decided to alter once more the coat of arms of the Russian Soviet Republic.

For the last few months the coat of arms consisted of a crossed sickle and hammer, but now this gives way to a more elaborate design which represents the same sickle and hammer crossed in the background of a globe representing the earth and surrounded by a wreath of wheat with the words: "Workers of the World, Unite" transcribed in Russian, French, English, German, Arabic and Chinese.

LAW IS UPHELD
Now that the hands of the railroad commission are freed by the supreme court, hearings involving heat and electric rates can go forward. Just before the injunction was served, an accountant for the commission reported that some rates charged by the local utility were in excess of a reasonable return on the investment.
There should be no delay now in a hearing and a decision upon steam, light and power rates so that some relief can be granted during the winter months when the consumption is heaviest. Users of heat are entitled to a material reduction in their rates. In fact the entire rate schedule as charged by the local utility should be the subject of a most searching analysis.
The action of the supreme court in upholding the law was generally expected for the injunction was brought largely to forestall an investigation of rates which of course now should be all the more vigorously prosecuted.

NOT ALL GLOOM
Reports from various Slope sections hardly justify the gloomy predictions and lamentations heard about the crop situation. There are some fine wheat fields in this vicinity; probably the best corn crop in years and the farmer who has diversified his crop is not as badly off as the chronic pessimist would have us believe.
Recently in a small town in Ohio where a stock sale was held some 243 farmers attended and total sales netted nearly $200,000. This indicated a purchasing power in a section where the farmers have ceased to gamble with Dame Nature on a one crop ante.
Reports from several sections indicate a shortage of dairy products, indicating a favorable demand for these commodities. The farmer who is milking a few cows, has some hogs and is not neglectful of chicken and turkey raising has a purchasing power far beyond the neighbor who clings to his one crop idea, always waiting for the bonanza year which according to the law of averages comes too seldom to make that kind of agriculture profitable.
Often the solution for an untoward economic situation lies closer home than the politicians would have us believe. Governmental action has in the main complicated rather than solved economic ills. Two factors at least contribute more directly than any others to the farmer's plight today; high labor costs and the condition of the world markets as far as his commodities are concerned. Legislative action to date has been powerless to cope with these economic forces, but the business horizon at that is much brighter than a year ago.

THE UNDERWORLD
Crime costs the American people more than three billion dollars a year—or roughly $30 for every man, woman and child.
This is the estimate by the National Surety Company, which bonds employees who handle money—cashiers, treasurers, etc.
It's only part of the real bill, of course, for it covers only the visible or reported crimes. Petty thefts, which never get publicity, never are called to attention of public officials, must mount up to a staggering sum each year.
What do you think is the most costly form of crime? Stock frauds, answers Cromwell, president of New York Stock Exchange. He figures that swindling by the sale of securities costs the American people a billion dollars a year, or a third of the total cost of crime.
Fraudulent bankruptcies get away with 400 million dollars a year.
Based on police estimates, the national loss from burglary, larceny and general petty thefts is only 250 million dollars a year.
That is amazing—burglars and other thieves getting away with only a fourth as much as the stock swindlers.
Embezzlers make off with 100 million dollars a year. Forgers get about the same. A fourth of this amount covers railroad freight thefts.
Bonding companies' books show that between 1910 and 1922 the losses from burglaries increased 1200 per cent, while embezzlements jumped 500 per cent. These figures are based on money losses. The average criminal "job," of course, involves more money than it used to. Putting it on a straight dollars-and-cents basis, and eliminating moral considerations, the theft of $200 today is equivalent to the theft of $100 before the war.
Even thieves have to figure on the increased cost of living.

A prominent expert attributes the increase in financial crimes to discontent, envy, unemployment, desire for luxury beyond earning capacity, carelessness of people whose funds are stolen, unfairly low pay, and "widespread disrespect for property rights and law, caused partly by the World War."
That last reason may be the most important one.
Comparing the national crime bill with the total income of the American people, about $1 in each $15 or $20 that is produced by honest effort is stolen by the parasites.
WIGS
Bruno Leo Schurig, hairdresser, who claims he selects the topes for the elder John D. Rockefeller, returns from Europe with this news: So many wig makers were killed in Germany and France, during the war, that wig making has become a highly exclusive profession.
Judging from the amount of time devoted to care of the hair, especially by women, this is important news. Hair is the most stubborn survivor of the vanity inherited from long generations of savage ancestors. If we were truly sanitary, and less vain, we'd all keep our heads clipped or shaved. The theory that bald headedness is an indication of superior civilization probably was started by a bald-headed man who either had a sense of humor or was kidding himself.

Editorial Review
AN UNFAIR SYSTEM
During the past week we have viewed the terrible ravages of the storm that swept through a part of this county. A most terrible sight to the eye, a sight such as cannot be pictured by words.
When such storms have caused a person damage, the natural query is: did he have insurance? and if not we call him a foolish man. But a strange situation has arisen, —no we have always had it, but not until the storm of Friday evening had done the awful work, did we realize the seriousness. A man insures his crop against hail in the early part of the summer and if he suffers a loss before cutting, he will receive compensation. But a man who insures his crop and is not haled out until after cutting, receives nothing for his money invested. It seems strange that simply because the later party has invested a little more money and labor in his crop, he should be denied compensation after suffering a loss, but such is the case under the present system of insurance.
We cannot see where there is any greater risk to grain that is cut and shocked than to grain that is standing—rather there is more likelihood that the grain standing will suffer a greater loss from hail. Insurance should be provided whereby the grain can be protected up to the time of threshing. Under the present system, losses which befall the farmers as a result of the recent storm cannot be removed.—La. Moure County Chronicle.

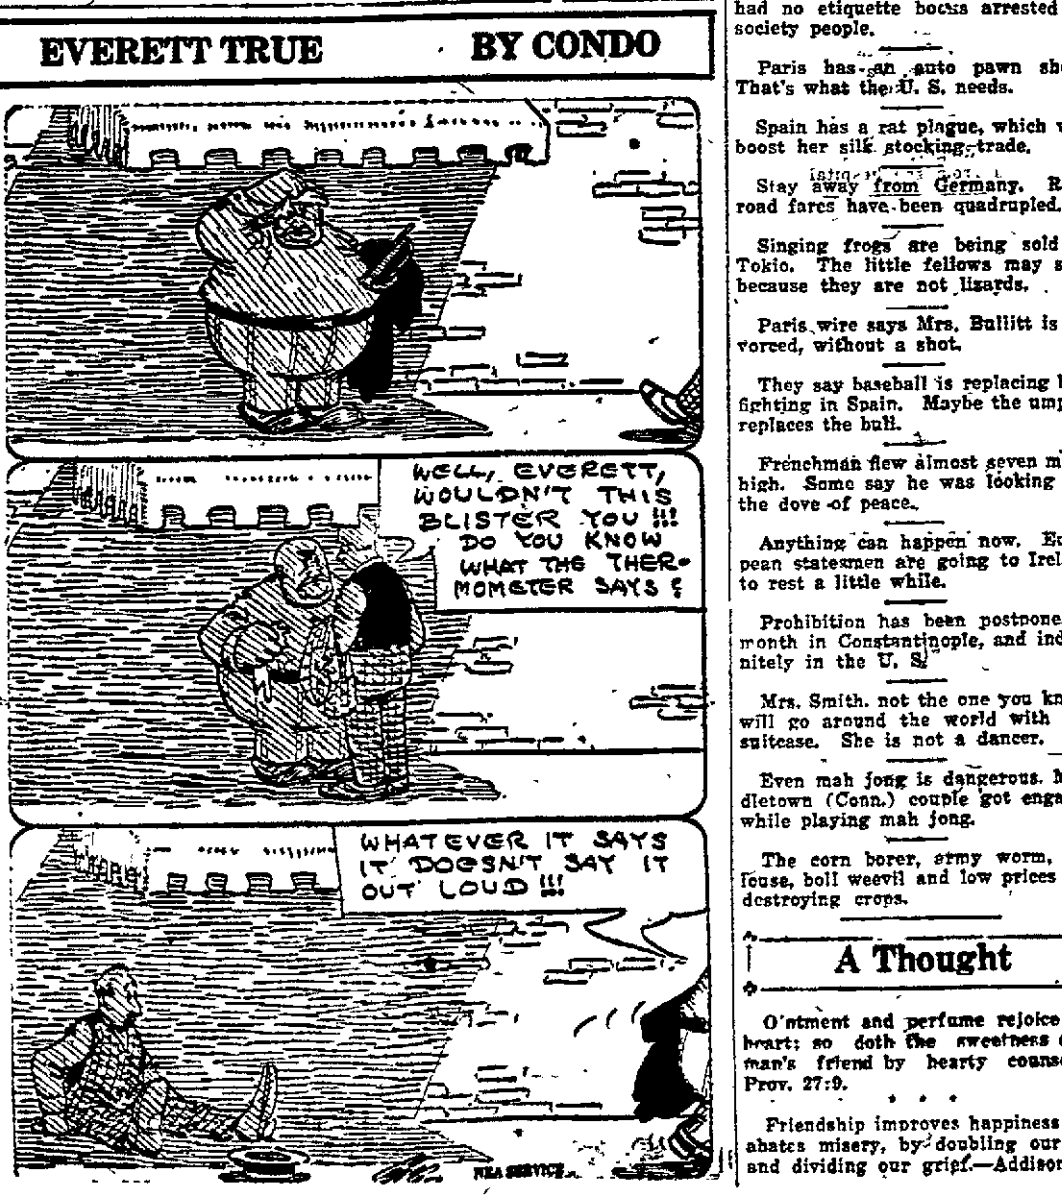

MAGNUS MAGNIFIES
The newly elected senator from Minnesota, Magnus Johnson, does the robes of a prophet of gloom. He sees revolution if conditions are not changed; Magnus finds that "65 per cent of the wealth of the country is in the hands of 2 per cent of the population" and "unless there is a better distribution of this wealth the common people are going to revolt against it."
What is wealth, Magnus? Is it in homes, where people have more than elsewhere? In this country 11,000,000 families hold deeds to their homes. Is it in motor cars, joyous chariots of the modern Rome. Eleven million families own their own automobiles and 11,000,000 more are saving up to buy a gas buggy. Is it in savings bank accounts? Thirteen million families have these and their footings run to nearly $10,000,000,000. In Magnus's own state three families own their own homes to every two families that rent. Are these home owners, these motor car owners, these savings bank depositors going to join in a revolution whose object is the distribution of wealth? Is Farmer Magnus, Johnson, owner of one of the largest and finest Gothic barns in Minnesota, going to make war in order that this barn be distributed among those who haven't barns?
Two per cent of the population is not eating 65 per cent of the green corn and carrying 65 per cent of the peas or swimming 65 per cent of the seas or swimming 65 per cent of the seas. It is not seeing 65 per cent of the motion pictures or dancing 65 per cent of the jazz steps. If we should hazard a plunge into percentages we should say that 98 per cent of the people, including Magnus, have 100 per cent of the joy—and therefore the wealth of the world.—New York Herald.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS
By Olive Roberts Barton
"DING, dong, ding dong!" went the school bell in Fee Wee Land. Nancy and Nick heard it the minute they turned the corner.
"Good lands! What's that for, do you s'pose?" cried Nancy. "There's no school now. This is vacation."
"Hurry up!" said Nick, starting to run. "Maybe there's a fire."
But there wasn't any more fire than there is in the refrigerator, my dears. However, there was quite as much excitement as if there had been forty fires.
King Snookums was rushing about, and every Fee Wee was rushing about and looking in all the houses and down all the holes and up all the bushes and weeds and every where.
The Twins knew the trouble at once. "Somebody's lost, I'll bet you anything," said Nancy.
And that's what it was. Little Paul Pry Fee Wee was gone.
"What's everybody making such a fuss about?" demanded Nick. "You don't ring bells when the other Fee Wees are lost."
"Oh, but that's different," declared Mrs. Pry, Paul's mother. "They're not my Paul. He's the most inquisitive boy in Fee Wee Land and I never get a minute's peace with him poking around. I'm sure he's down the well, or something. Oh, my poor Polly Pry Fee Wee."
"We'll help to hunt," said Nancy. "We have good luck finding things, so don't worry. We'll get him. Come on Nick."
The Twins looked everywhere, and were just about to give up when they passed Farmer Brown's mouse trap near the oat-bin. Then they heard a faint voice calling.
"Goodness-alive! There's somebody in the mouse trap," said Nancy. "Peep in, Nick, but be careful."
So Nick stuck in his head.
"Hello! Hello, Paul Pry Fee Wee," Nancy heard him say. "How did you get here?"
"I wanted to see how it worked," answered the Fee Wee boy faintly. "I hardly touched it at all when it snapped down on my foot. I can't move."
The Twins worked like tailors and by 'n by Paul Pry was set free.
"Oh, thank you," he cried, limping off toward home. "I'll never monkey with anything again. I'm cured."

LETTER FROM JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT TO SYDNEY CARTON.
I didn't have more than time to just ask you to be godfather to my new son when I sent you that clipping, and, besides, it seemed to me rather terrible to bring Paula's name into the letter in which I told you about Leslie's being so near death.
I'm awfully glad Paula has gone out to Hollywood. I think she will make a great success in moving pictures and God knows I wish her everything good that life might bring to her.
I suppose, according to our grandmothers I should despise poor little Paula, but contrary I only despise myself. Will we ever get this sex idea as it should be, on a single standard?
The only sin that Paula Perier ever committed was in loving me too much, Syd, and although the prudes and prunes might criticize her greatly, I only feel that I should ask her forgiveness.
Isn't it strange, Syd, that I am taking in my arms every day a child of unknown parentage and finding that child is growing very closely into my heart, while my own child I probably will never look upon.
No, Syd, I do not think I could be big enough to bring my own child into my house under the circumstances you speak about. Certainly I could not do it without telling Leslie and I am too big a coward to let her that, too much afraid of losing her love.
When I think of it now, I think the Fates have been pretty good to me after all. Leslie trusts and respects me and I am pretty sure that Leslie is going out motoring with me for the first time tomorrow and I expect Mrs. Hamilton will be leaving very soon for home.
By the way, my own mother is taking my adoption of a child very tragically. More so perhaps because that everlasting old maid, Priscilla Bradford, is with her than she would be more hurt if she could see some of the letters that have passed between mother and me.
What an awful nuisance an old woman of Puritanical standards and no humor can make of herself. JACK.

THE YELLOW SEVEN: The Barrier Of Fire
By Edmund Snell
NEA Service, Inc. 1923
This unusual series of stories deals with the exploits of "Chinese" Pennington, a detective sent by his government to British North Borneo to run to earth The Yellow Seven, a gang of Chinese bandits.
Enid Bromley—dark, small-featured and effective—dropped her racket on to the grass and sank into a chair by Hewitt's side. "I'm afraid I've got you an awful let-down in the last set," she murmured. "I'm frightfully sorry."
Captain John Hewitt—Commissioner of Police at Jesselton, B. N. B.—passed a hand through his dark hair. "Not at all," he returned gallantly. "Just fancy," put in Monica. "She says she hasn't touched a racket for 18 months. You look tired, Mr. Dawson." She smiled toward the stout, well-faced man who blinked back at her through a sea of perspiration. "I'm not tired, Mrs. Viney," declared Dawson. "I'm hot!" He settled himself down on the turf at their feet.
"You'd scarcely credit it," Miss Bromley, but I've been spending the best part of three weeks groveling on my tummy, wriggling like some jolly old serpent after a Chinese brigand with a fancy name."
"It sounds thrilling."
"It wasn't half so thrilling as it sounds! Mrs. Viney—the charming widow on my left—has snaffled the affections of the only man on the island who can wriggle gracefully and effectively—and that's Chinese Pennington."
"Did you catch your bandit?" Dawson had turned again and was sauntering down the slope toward the palm-clad shores of the bay. "Not altogether," he confessed. "Enid looked puzzled. "Dawson's endeavoring to achieve the impossible," broke in the Commissioner. "He's trying to appear deeper! Taken on the whole, Borneo's a nice, comfortable little place; but for some time past we've been having trouble with an Oriental who calls himself Chai-Hung. Pennington and Dawson set out together to round-up the Yellow Seven—that's the somewhat picturesque title of the gang. Chai-Hung was too clever for them but, in the sort of general mix-up, his second-in-command was put out of action together with several of his immediate bodyguard. To all intents and purposes, Chai-Hung controls the movements of every Chinese on the island."
"The majority of managers employ Chinese labor. The allegiance of the more scattered members of the organization is fortunately passive, but so great is their fear of the bandit himself and the little yellow card with seven black dots, that they would shirk the least dose of disobeying his commands."
"Jack," said Monica, touching her brother's sleeve, "when you've finished frightening Miss Bromley with tales of your brigand, do you think you could muster up energy to order something with ice in it?" The Commissioner started to his feet.
"By Jove! I'm fearfully sorry. Come along, Dawson."
The two men mounted the wooden stairs together and passed through an open doorway, making their way toward the general room in which the bar was situated.
Hewitt had just completed the order for his sister and Enid Bromley and was turning in search of Paul, when his eyes lit upon the long leg protruding from the lower portion of a long chair. He crossed the intervening space on tip-toe. The occupant of the chair beamed up at him.
"Hello, old son! I was wondering when you were going to turn up!" "Peter," returned the Commissioner reproachfully. "If you have lost every shred of respect for regularity and myself you might at least have had the decency to report your arrival to Monica!"
The man with the Chinese eyes remained unmoved.
"I called at the bungalow—but your orderly informed me you were eating the air! I came on here to find you absorbed in a game of tennis."
"Hello, you old devil!" greeted Dawson.
Pennington rose wearily. "Jack: who's the lady?" They converged around a bamboo table and a Chinese boy set a tray in front of them.
"What d'you think of her? Not bad, eh?"
"She's not bad," conceded Pennington. "Bit on the thin side! Not feeling smitten, I hope?" Hewitt changed the subject abruptly.
"How's the Yellow Seven affair proceeding?"
"You know we settled Nyi-Hau—the feller responsible for looting a train?"

With reference to the murder of Paul Sundbakken of Ruso, N. Dak. on August 14th, the Coroner and County Officials were called and appeared as soon as possible but seemed to be able to do very little with the clues and evidence left by the murderer. Chief of Police Martineau of Bismarck was then called by Sheriff Maxwell of McLean County to assist him and who arrived on August 15th and took up the trail at once causing the arrest of William Jesson on Thursday evening, August 16th and taking him to Washburn on the same evening. Under Mr. Martineau's cross examination, William Jesson confessed to the murder on August 18th.
It took Mr. Martineau just four days to accomplish this and Bismarck should feel highly complimented on having such an efficient Chief of Police.

REDS TAKE 2 GAMES

Chicago, Aug. 21.—Johnny Morrison threw the New York Nationals to defeat yesterday and won the second game of the critical series from Pittsburgh, 3 to 1. He struck out five of the world's champions and allowed only six hits. This is the eighth game the Giants have lost in the last dozen and the Cincinnati Reds are beginning to wear the expression reserved for league champions. The Giant pitchers were bad, the hitters were worse, having scored only five runs in the last three games.

The New York Americans defeated the White Sox in Chicago, pounding out 16 hits for 28 bases and winning 16 to 5. The team started right off with a loud noise in the first inning, turning four hits including a homer by Ward into four runs. They hit so hard and so often that the fans yawned every time the ball trailed. Even baseball fans can be gored.

Bunched hitting by the Boston Americans enabled them to win in Detroit, 6 to 2. Pierce held the home team to four hits, which were scattered. Burns made a home run for the visitors.

The Cincinnati Nationals easily won two games in Philadelphia, 6 to 3 and 8 to 3 and now are only 4 1/2 games behind the Giants. Cy Williams hit his 30th homer of the season in the third, scoring Sand ahead of him.

The Chicago Nationals hit Grimes around the lot in Brooklyn, winning with ease 10 to 4.

Grimes' collapse came after a record of 24 scoreless innings. The St. Louis Nationals were beaten in Boston, 5 to 2. Marquard pitching a fine game of ball and allowing only seven scattered hits.

ENGLISH NOW LEADING IN TENNIS PLAY

Newport, R. I., Aug. 21.—England went into a 3-2 lead over the United States in the women's international tennis matches on the courts of the Newport Casino yesterday. The teams ended the four singles matches of the day tied at 2-2, but Miss Kathleen McKane and Mrs. B. C. Covell, English pair, who won the American championship at Forest Hills last week, upheld their claim to title by administering a second defeat to Mrs. George H. Wightman, and Miss Eleanor Goss, the Americans, finalists at Forest Hills, and victors over the English women in the Wightman cup series, were defeated, 6-4, 8-6.

In the singles, Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, playing an aggressive, hard hitting game, defeated Mrs. Geraldine Beamish of England, 6-3, 6-1; Miss Goss won from Miss McKane, 7-5, 6-4; Mrs. B. C. Covell overwhelmed Miss Leslie Haneroff of the American team 6-1, 6-0, and Mrs. R. C. Clayton, of England won from Miss Lillian Scherman, 6-3, 3-6, 6-2.

By the fortune of the draw, America can do no more than gain a tie by today's play in the women's international tennis matches. Of the three matches scheduled for today only one will count in the international scoring.

The doubles will bring together Mrs. Geraldine Beamish and Mrs. R. C. Clayton of England, and Miss Lillian Scherman and Miss Ceres Baker representing America. In the singles matches the players will meet fellow countrywomen. Mrs. Molla B. Mallory will play Miss Eleanor Goss, and Mrs. B. C. Covell will have as her opponent, Mrs. Clayton.

WILLARD SEES TOUGH TEST FOR DEMPSEY

Chicago, Aug. 21.—Unless Jack Dempsey wins from Luis Firpo within four or five rounds he will not win at all, is the opinion of Jess Willard, former heavyweight champion, who is in Chicago on a visit. Firpo, he said, reminded him of Jim Jeffries.

"I consider Dempsey the best quick-starter in the business but I believe if he does not cop in five rounds he does not cop at all. I believe Dempsey will get the surprise of his life against Firpo," said Willard.

WAITE HOYT IS SUSPENDED

Chicago, Aug. 21.—Waite Hoyt, star pitcher of the New York Yankees yesterday was indefinitely suspended by President Johnson of the league, following his attempted attack upon Umpire "Brick" Owens. Bill Barrett of the Chicago club was safe on a close play at the plate in yesterday's game when he scored the winning run in the eighth. Hoyt protested the arbiters' decision and made vain efforts to strike Owens. Other players restrained him from doing so and he was led off the field.

Bees suffered severely from lack of food in the north of England this year, owing to the late flowering season.

McGraw Cast Aside "Rube" Marquard, But Certainly Could Use Him Now

BY BILLY EVANS.
New York, Aug. 21.—There is a strong demand for pitching in both major leagues this season.

John J. McGraw says he is staggering along with an uncertain staff. Pat Moran has been claiming pitchers on waivers, while Bill McKechnie has announced that with one more star hurler he would nose out the Giants.

In the American League even Miller Huggins of the New York Yankees is having trouble with his remarkable pitching staff.

And while all of this is going on, "Rube" Marquard is pitching as brilliantly as at any time in his career for a tail-end club.

Marquard's pitching this season, his fifteenth in the National League, is as remarkable as any time since he became a big leaguer.

His career is known by all followers of the National League. He arrived at the Polo Grounds in the fall of 1908 as an $11,000 prize.

McGraw, with that price, had set a record purchase for a minor leaguer and Marquard immediately became the center of attraction. However, the Rube was not fully developed and for more than a year he was regarded as one of the biggest lemons that ever hit Big Broadway.

Developed into a Star.

Through a slow and careful process McGraw eventually developed the lean and lanky southpaw. There was a sharp turn in affairs and finally Marquard became a pitching sensation.

That record of 19 successive victories attained in 1912 remains the best performance of any big leaguer pitcher during these modern times.

But the southpaw phenomenon did not live long — anyway in McGraw's opinion, and during the 1915 season the Rube was passed along to the Brooklyn Superbas as a fading veteran. He lasted five years and a half with Wilbert Robinson when there was another shift in his journey, the Rube going over to the Cincinnati Reds in exchange for Walter Ruethe.

Marquard lived but one season with the Reds and he was traded along with Larry Kopt to the Boston Braves for Pitcher John Scott.

One of Marquard's most recent games was a shut-out against the St. Louis Cardinals in which he did not pass a single batter.

Praise for Marquard.

"It was one of the prettiest pitched games I have seen all summer," remarked Fred Mitchell. "That fellow's a wonder, let me tell you. While they have been talking about new phenoms and old stars this season, there isn't a pitcher in the league who has pitched better ball than Marquard. With a tail end club he has practically broke even.

"You don't hear much about his work-of-course you don't, because we're down in the cellar, but right now he would win the pennant for the Giants, Reds or Pirates. McGraw could use him. Don't think he couldn't. The same goes for Moran and McKechnie.

"Marquard has as much speed today as when he broke in as a kid. His control for a left hander is remarkable."

The life of a left-handed pitcher in the majors is usually a short one. "Rube" Marquard, like Eddie Plank, is one of the decided exceptions.

It's Easy to Retain Title When You Dodge 'Em Way Joe Lynch Does

By Billy Evans.
New York, Aug. 21.—What has become of Bantamweight Champion Joe Lynch.

A little over a year ago, Lynch regained the bantam title by his knockout of Johnny Buff.

Since that time Lynch has put the crown among camphor balls and played hide and seek with every logical contender.

As far as Lynch is concerned the bantam title has been a rather flimsy honor. He won it in 1920 from Pete Herman. The following year Herman regained the championship. Herman in turn lost it to Johnny Buff, who was beaten by Lynch.

Right now the big idea with Lynch is to have and to hold. Naturally, the best way to hold the championship is not to take any unnecessary risks.

As a result of Lynch's inactivity, the bantam class has lacked color for over a year. Lynch in many ways is an unusual champion. He is a bit of an in-and-out. When Lynch is at the top of his game he is a greater fighter. When he has an off night no third-rater could look worse.

Two Logical Contenders

Tremaine. The Cleveland fighter is at his best against rangy boys like Lynch. As a result, Tremaine's efforts to get a chance at the title have been fruitless.

In 1918 he lost to Pat Moore and Jimmy Wilde. The following year Jimmy Wilde received another verdict in 15 rounds. In 1921 he lost his title to Herman in a 15-round bout and also dropped a 12-round decision to Phil O'Dowd. Other fighters to have a verdict over Lynch are Terry Martin and Jack Wolfe.

Rivals Are Confident

Both Burman and Tremaine are confident they can defeat the champion if given the opportunity.

"If I ever get Lynch into the same ring with me the championship is mine," is the way Tremaine puts it. Carl is a cocky individual, with unlimited confidence in his ability.

"I know that I can beat Lynch or anyone else at the bantam weight," says Burman. "All I want is a chance to prove it. I understand Lynch has

TALK ABOUT CRACK SHOTS—WELL, HERE'S REGULAR ONE

By NEA Service.
Lucy, Tenn., Aug. 21.—Uncle Sam wouldn't need to worry one particle if he had a regiment of Boyd Duncans.

For Duncan, 24-year-old southpaw scattergun shot of the Winchester team, is some marksman.

Over the traps at Birmingham (Ala.) Gun Club, he has just banged up two new records that will be hard to topple over.

Shooting at 100 targets, he broke the first 99, getting a run of 621 straight from 16 yards. Then he finished with 99 in 100 for a run of 643 out of 650.

In the Alabama state matches just the week previous, he smashed 53 in succession, ending the program with 549 out of 550.

Duncan has been shooting exceptionally well this season. He was high over all in the Arkansas, Louisiana, Oklahoma and South Carolina shoots. In the Southern Zone, he tied for the singles championship, won the preliminary and zone handicaps and the all-around championship. His year's average is better than 98 percent.

Boyd comes from a family of crack shots. His father and his brother have made names for themselves in different meets. Several years ago in Arkansas, the Duncan trio broke 495 out of 500 targets. That still stands as a family record.

Boyd, himself, has won the trap-shooting title of Tennessee three times, once as an amateur before he was old enough to vote.

He uses a Winchester ventilated rib trapgun and repeater shells with practice wadding.

BOYD DUNCAN

Duncan now is practicing for the national and international matches at Camp Perry, O., in September.

agreed to give me the first big bout in which he engages."

It is a rather unusual fact that Burman has been Tremaine's most troublesome opponent. The pair have met in three no-decision bouts, all of them thrillers, with the experts divided as to the winner.

Burman probably has engaged in more bouts than any bantamweight in the ring. When he meets Lynch it's at least an even bet that a new champ will be crowned.

KEN WILLIAMS USES HIS BAT DESPITE KICK

St. Louis, Aug. 21.—Kenneth Williams, local American home run slugger used his alleged illegal bat in yesterday afternoon's game with Washington. Manager Jimmy Austin of the Browns said Williams would be allowed to continue using the bat, which contains a wooden peg at the end, until Ban Johnson, president of the American League ruled on the legality of the bidgeon.

Umpire George Hildebrand had asserted he would make a complete report of the matter to Johnson.

Hildebrand's announcement followed a statement by Manager Bush of Washington that he would protest all victories the Browns won from the Senators in which the bat was used by Williams. Bush asserted that the bat is illegal because it is made out of more than one piece of wood.

Williams explained he had the bat made especially for his own use, and after receiving it, he found it a bit too heavy so he had a hole bored in the middle of it, and had the hole plugged up at the end.

Kinks o' the Links

Player tees up his ball, assumes his stance and then starts his swing. While making the downward swing with the intention of hitting the ball, the club head parted from the shaft and struck the ground behind the ball, same remaining unmolested on the tee. Is such a happening regarded as purely accidental or is it a stroke?

According to fair play it would seem that the happening should be regarded as an accident. However, according to a strict interpretation of the rules it is regarded as a stroke. Several years ago in a big tournament such a thing actually happened and the committee in charge ruled it a stroke, thereby setting a precedent founded on rule.

Player while walking backward on the putting green accidentally knocks his ball from its position, an advantageous one very close to the cup. Has the player the right to replace the ball as near as possible to its original position? Does the player suffer any penalty for coming into contact with the ball in the manner described?

When a player so moves his ball by coming into contact with it, he must play it from the spot to which it had been moved. Player suffers a stroke penalty for moving his ball.

In driving from the tee, player apparently gets away a long ball, only to have it strike a forcetie and be deflected into a very bad lie. What are the rights of the player in such a case?

The happening is merely regarded as a rub of the green in other words, a tough break, and the ball shall be played from the spot where it lies.

CRUELTY TO INSECTS.

London, Aug. 21.—On the proposal of Sir Walter de Frece, reptiles and fish are added to the animals protected by the "cruelty to animals" bill. Sir Walter wanted to put in "insects," but agreed to drop it out when it was pointed out that it would be difficult to convict when a man was cruel to a flea.

JAZZ GOING.

Cleanliness A Modern Idea

Shortly before the Civil War, Boston made it a prison offense to take a bath except on the advice of a physician. The Philadelphia Council tried to make it illegal to bathe between November 1 and March 15 and failed by one vote. Virginia placed a luxury tax of $30 on each bathtub in the state.

Ideas regarding cleanliness have changed materially since then. In fact, ideas on almost everything have undergone something of a metamorphosis. Today, these changes are taking place more rapidly than ever before. There has never been a time when evolution hit such a furious pace—when conditions changed so quickly—when standards of living were raised so consistently.

You may not realize it, but advertising is responsible for much of this improvement. Advertising has taken its place as a leading force in solving the wants of the people.

Stop and think how many of the appliances you use, the foods you eat, the clothes you wear and other articles entering into your daily life, were popularized through newspaper advertising.

Then you will realize what a debt you owe to advertising.

The advertisements mean a lot to you.

WEATHER FORECASTS

For Bismarck and vicinity: Partly cloudy tonight and Wednesday. Slowly rising temperature.

For North Dakota: Partly cloudy tonight and Wednesday. Slowly rising temperature.

General Weather Conditions

Accompanying the movement of the low pressure area from the Rocky Mountain region to the upper Great Lakes, precipitation has been general from the Great Lakes region westward to the north Pacific coast. The precipitation was heavy in the upper Mississippi Valley and in the northern Rocky Mountain region. An extensive area of high pressure is centered over Saskatchewan and North Dakota this morning and cool weather prevails in all sections. Temperatures were near freezing in some parts of North Dakota this morning.

Roads Conditions

Although the general rains throughout the State yesterday improved roads somewhat, they are still rough in many places.

Decisions of Supreme Court

FROM BURLEIGH COUNTY

Roy Logan, Fred Peterson, C. Bertach, et al.

Plaintiffs and Appellants.

City of Bismarck, a Municipal Corporation, et al.

Defendants and Respondents.

SYLLABUS:

1. A submission by the City Commission of a proposition to issue bonds in a stated amount for "constructing or purchasing waterworks for the city, is a single question and, is, therefore, not within the condemnation of the rule announced in Stern v. Fargo, 18 N. D. 289;

2. Under the statutes and decisions in this jurisdiction, a majority of the votes cast upon the question of bonding the city for the purpose of constructing or purchasing waterworks, if in the affirmative, carries the proposition and it is not necessary that a majority of all the legal voters of the city vote in favor thereof.

3. For reasons stated in the opinion, it is held, that the ordinance enacted by the City Commission, providing for the delivering of the bonds, conforms substantially with the question as submitted to the voters and with the resolution ordering the election.

Appeal from the District Court of Burleigh County, Janionius, J.

Plaintiffs appeal from an order and judgment dismissing the complaint.

Morrison for Pittsburgh
Pitches Fine Ball, Setting

REDS TAKE 2 GAMES

Chicago, Aug. 21.—Johnny Morrison threw the New York Nationals to defeat yesterday and won the second game of the critical series from Pittsburgh, 3 to 1. He struck out five of the world's champions and allowed only six hits. This is the eighth game the Giants have lost in the last dozen and the Cincinnati Reds are beginning to wear the expression reserved for league champions. The Giant pitchers were bad, the hitters were worse, having scored only five runs in the last three games.

The New York Americans defeated the White Sox at Chicago, pounding out 16 hits for 28 bases and winning 16 to 5. The team started right off with a loud noise in the first inning, turning four hits including a homer by Ward into four runs. They hit so hard and so often that the fans yawned every time the ball trailed. Even baseball fans can be gorged.

Bunched hitting by the Boston Americans enabled them to win in Detroit, 6 to 2. Pierce held the home team to four hits, which were scattered. Burns made a home run for the visitors.

Washington Americans took three runs in the second inning and four in the fourth while Mitchell held St. Louis to five hits.

The Cincinnati Nationals easily won two games in Philadelphia, 6 to 3 and 8 to 3 and now are only 4-2 games behind the Giants. Cy Williams hit his 30th homer of the season in the second, scoring Sand ahead of him.

The Chicago Nationals hit Grimes around the lot in Brooklyn, winning with ease 10 to 4. Grimes' collapse came after a record of 24 scoreless innings.

The St. Louis Nationals were beaten in Boston, 5 to 2, Marquard pitching a fine game of ball and allowing only seven scattered hits.

ENGLISH NOW LEADING IN TENNIS PLAY

Newport, R. I., Aug. 21.—England went into a 3-2 lead over the United States in the women's international tennis matches on the courts of the Newport Casino yesterday. The teams ended the four singles matches of the day tied at 2-2, but Miss Kathleen McKane and Mrs. B. C. Covell, English pair, who won the American championship at Forest Hills, last week, upheld their claim to the title by administering a second defeat to Mrs. George H. Wightman, and Miss Eleanor Goss. The Americans, finalists at Forest Hills, and victors over the English women in the Wightman cup series, were defeated, 6-4, 6-6.

In the singles, Mrs. Molla Bjurested Mallory, playing an aggressive, hard hitting game, defeated Mrs. Geraldine Beamish of England, 6-3, 6-1; Miss Goss won from Miss McKane, 7-5, 6-4. Mrs. B. C. Covell overwhelmed Miss Leslie Bonaventure of the American team 6-1, 6-0, and Mrs. R. C. Clayton, of England won from Miss Lillian Scherman, 6-3, 6-6, 6-2.

By the fortune of the draw, America can do no more than gain a tie by today's play in the women's international tennis matches. Of the three matches scheduled for today only one will count in the international scoring.

The doubles will bring together Mrs. Geraldine Beamish and Mrs. R. C. Clayton of England, and Miss Lillian Scherman and Miss Ceres Baker representing America. In the singles matches the players will meet fellow countrywomen, Mrs. Molla B. Mallory will play Miss Eleanor Goss, and Mrs. B. C. Covell will have as her opponent, Mrs. Clayton.

WILLARD SEES TOUGH TIME FOR DEMPSEY

Chicago, Aug. 21.—Unless Jack Dempsey wins from Luis Firpo within four or five rounds he will not win at all, is the opinion of Jess Willard, former heavyweight champion, who is in Chicago on a visit. Firpo, he said, reminded him of Jim Jeffries.

"I consider Dempsey the best quickstarter in the business but I believe if he does not cop in five rounds he does not cop at all. I believe Dempsey will get the surprise of his life against Firpo," said Willard.

WAITE HOYT IS SUSPENDED

Chicago, Aug. 21.—Waite Hoyt, star pitcher of the New York Yankees yesterday was indefinitely suspended by President Johnson of the league following his attempt to attack upon Umpire "Brick" Owens. Bill Barrett of the Chicago club was safe on a close play at the plate in yesterday's game when he scored the winning run in the eighth. Hoyt protested the arbiters' decision and made vain efforts to strike Owens. Other players restrained him from doing so and he was led off the field.

Bees suffered severely from lack of food in the north of England this year, owing to the late flowering season.

McGraw Cast Aside "Rube" Marquard, But Certainly Could Use Him Now

BY BILLY EVANS.
New York, Aug. 21.—There is a strong demand for pitching in both major leagues this season.

John J. McGraw says he is staggering along with an uncertain staff. Pat Moran has been claiming pitchers on waivers, while Bill McKechnie has announced that with one more star hurler he would nose out the Giants.

The American League even Miller Huggins of the New York Yankees is having trouble with his remarkable pitching staff.

And while all of this is going on, "Rube" Marquard is pitching as brilliantly as at any time in his career for a tail-end club.

Marquard's pitching this season, his fifteenth in the National League, is as remarkable as any time since he became a big leaguer.

His career is known by all followers of the National League. He arrived at the Polo Grounds in the fall of 1908 as an $11,000 prize.

McGraw, with that price, had set a record purchase for a minor leaguer and Marquard immediately became the center of attraction. However, the Rube was not fully developed and for more than a year he was regarded as one of the biggest lemons that ever hit Big Broadway.

Developed into a star. Through a slow and careful process McGraw eventually developed the lean and lanky southpaw. There was a sharp turn in affairs and finally Marquard became a pitching sensation.

That record of 19 successive victories attained in 1912 remains the best performance of any big league pitcher during these modern times.

But the southpaw phenom did not live long — anyway in McGraw's opinion, and during the 1915 season the Rube was passed along to the Brooklyn Superbas as a fading veteran. He lasted five years and a half with Wilbert Robinson when there was another shift in his journey, the Rube going over to the Cincinnati Reds in exchange for Walter Rucker.

Marquard lived but one season with the Reds and he was traded along with Larry Kopf to the Boston Braves for Pitcher John Scott.

One of Marquard's most recent games was a shut-out against the St. Louis Cardinals in which he did not pass a single batter.

"It was one of the prettiest pitched games I have seen all summer," remarked Fred Mitchell. "That fellow's a wonder, let me tell you. While they have been talking about new phenoms and old stars this season, there isn't a pitcher in the league who has pitched better ball than Marquard. With a tail end club he has practically broke even.

"Marquard has as much speed today as when he broke in as a kid. His control for a left hander is remarkable."

The life of a left-handed pitcher in the majors is usually a short one. "Rube" Marquard, like Eddie Plank, is one of the decided exceptions.

By Billy Evans.
New York, Aug. 21.—What has become of Bantamweight Champion Joe Lynch?

A little over a year ago, Lynch regained the bantam title by his knock-out of Johnny Buff.

Since that time Lynch has put the crown among camphor balls and played hide and seek with every logical contender.

As far as Lynch is concerned the bantam title has been a rather flimsy honor. He won it in 1920 from Pete Herman. The following year Herman regained the championship. Herman in turn lost it to Johnny Buff, who was beaten by Lynch.

Right now the big idea with Lynch is to have and to hold. Naturally, the best way to hold the championship is not to take any unnecessary risks.

As a result of Lynch's inactivity, the bantam class has lacked color for over a year. Lynch in many ways is an unusual champion. He is a bit of an in-and-out. When Lynch is at the top of his game he is a greater fighter. When he has an off night no third-rater could look worse.

Two Logical Contenders.
Two bantams of class, Joe Burman and Carl Tremaine, are entitled to a match with Lynch. The champion never has looked with favor on Tremaine. The Cleveland fighter is at his best against rangy boys like Lynch. As a result, Tremaine's efforts to get a chance at the title have been fruitless.

It looks very much as if Joe Burman would get first-call on a title bout. Burman is a great little fighter and Lynch will have his hands full staving off the Chicagoan.

Lynch is far from invincible. He doesn't stand out in his class as does Benny Leonard or Jack Dempsey. Joe is great when great, and ordinary when ordinary. His record reveals his lack of consistency.

In 1918 he lost to Pat Moore and Jimmy Wilde. The following year Jimmy Wilde received another verdict in 15 rounds. In 1921 he lost his title to Herman in a 16-round bout and also dropped a 12-round decision to Phil O'Dowd. Other fights to have a verdict over Lynch are Terry Martin and Jack Wolfe.

Rivals Are Confident.
Both Burman and Tremaine are confident they can defeat the champion if given the opportunity.

"If I ever get Lynch into the same ring with me the championship is mine," is the way Tremaine puts it. Carl is a cocky individual, with unlimited confidence in his ability.

"I know that I can beat Lynch or anyone else at the bantam weight," says Burman. "All I want is a chance to prove it. I understand Lynch has

TALK ABOUT CRACK SHOTS—WELL, HERE'S REGULAR ONE

By NEA Service.
Lucy, Tenn., Aug. 21.—Uncle Sam wouldn't need to worry one particle if he had a regiment of Boyd Duncans.

For Duncan, 24-year-old southpaw scattergun shot of the Winchester team, is some marksmen.

Over the traps at Birmingham (Ala.) Gun Club, he has just banged up two new records that will be hard to topple over.

Shooting at 100 targets, he broke the first 99, getting a run of 621 straight from 16 yards. Then he finished with 99 in 100 for a run of 648 out of 650.

In the Alabama state matches just the week previous, he smashed 53 in succession, ending the program with 549 out of 550.

Duncan has been shooting exceptionally well this season. He was high over all in the Arkansas, Louisiana, Oklahoma and South Carolina shoots. In the Southern Zone, he tied for the singles championship, won the preliminary and zone handicaps and the all-around championship. His year's average is better than 98 percent.

Boyd comes from a family of crack shots. His father and his brother have made names for themselves in different meets. Several years ago in Arkansas, the Duncan trio broke 495 out of 500 targets. That still stands as a family record.

Boyd, himself, has won the trap shooting title of Tennessee three times, once as an amateur before he was old enough to vote.

He uses a Winchester ventilated rib trapgun and repeater shells with practice wadding.

agreed to give me the first big bout in which he engages."

It is a rather unusual fact that Burman has been Tremaine's most troublesome opponent. The pair have met in three no-decision bouts, all of them thrillers, with the experts divided as to the winner.

Burman probably has engaged in more bouts than any bantamweight in the ring. When he meets Lynch it's at least as even bet that a new champ will be crowned.

KEN WILLIAMS USES HIS BAT DESPITE KICK

St. Louis, Aug. 21.—Kenneth Williams, local American home run slugger used his alleged illegal bat in yesterday afternoon's game with Washington. Manager Jimmy Austin of the Browns said Williams would be allowed to continue using the bat, which contains a wooden peg at the end, until Sam Johnson, president of the American League ruled on the legality of the bat.

Umpire George Hildebrand asserted he would make a complete report of the matter to Johnson. Hildebrand's announcement followed a statement by Senator Bush of Washington that he would protest all victories the Browns won from the Senators in which the bat was used by Williams.

Williams explained he had the bat made especially for his own use, and after receiving it, he found it a bit too heavy so he had a hole bored in the middle of it, and had the hole plugged up at the end.

It looks very much as if Joe Burman would get first-call on a title bout. Burman is a great little fighter and Lynch will have his hands full staving off the Chicagoan.

Lynch is far from invincible. He doesn't stand out in his class as does Benny Leonard or Jack Dempsey. Joe is great when great, and ordinary when ordinary. His record reveals his lack of consistency.

Player tees up his ball, assumes his stance and then starts his swing. While making the downward swing with the intention of hitting the ball, the club head parted from the shaft and struck the ground behind the ball, same remaining unaltered on the tee. Is such a happening regarded as purely accidental or is it a stroke?

According to fair play it would seem that the happening should be regarded as an accident. However, according to a strict interpretation of the rules it is regarded as a stroke. Several years ago in a big tournament such a thing actually happened and the committee in charge ruled it a stroke, thereby setting a precedent founded on rule.

Player while walking backward on the putting green accidentally knocks his ball from its position, an advantage one very close to the cup. Has the player the right to replace the ball as near as possible to its original position? Does the player suffer any penalty for coming into contact with the ball in the manner described?

When a player so moves his ball by coming into contact with it, he must play it from the spot to which it had been moved. Player suffers a stroke penalty for moving his ball.

In driving from the tee, player apparently gets away a long ball, only to have it strike a forecaddie and be deflected into a very bad lie. What are the rights of the player in such a case?

The happening is merely regarded as a rub of the green, in other words, a tough break, and the ball shall be played from the spot where it lies.

CRUELTY TO INSECTS.
London, Aug. 21.—On the proposal of Sir Walter de Frece, reptiles and fish are added to the animals protected by the "cruelty to animals" bill. Sir Walter wanted to put in "insects," but agreed to drop it out when it was pointed out that it would be difficult to convict when a man was cruel to a flea.

JAZZ GOING.

Cleanliness A Modern Idea

Shortly before the Civil War, Boston made it a prison offense to take a bath except on the advice of a physician. The Philadelphia Council tried to make it illegal to bathe between November 1 and March 15 and failed by one vote. Virginia placed a luxury tax of $30 on each bathtub in the state.

Ideas regarding cleanliness have changed materially since then. In fact, ideas on almost everything have undergone something of a metamorphosis. Today, these changes are taking place more rapidly than ever before. There has never been a time when evolution hit such a furious pace—when conditions changed so quickly—when standards of living were raised so consistently.

You may not realize it, but advertising is responsible for much of this improvement. Advertising has taken its place as a leading force in solving the wants of the people.

Stop and think how many of the appliances you use, the foods you eat, the clothes you wear and other articles entering into your daily life, were popularized through newspaper advertising.

Then you will realize what a debt you owe to advertising.

The advertisements mean a lot to you. Don't fail to read them.

1,500 INDIANS JOIN IN FAIR AT FT. YATES

Annual Indian Fair to be Filled with Pageantry of History

FINE DISPLAYS

About 1,500 Indians on the Standing Rock reservation are planning to make their twelfth annual fair at Fort Yates, Aug. 29, 30, 31 the finest and biggest in their history.

From year to year the Indians proudly make collections and prepare for their fair of the next year. This interest in the success of the affair may be due to the fact that about half of the Indians take part in the races, broncho busting, pageantry, and dances that are important features of the occasion. The old Indians direct the pageantry and dancing, for in it is portrayed the history of the tribes and individuals while the younger generation prepares the displays of grain and other farm products which they raise from year to year.

The fair grounds this year are designated by the huge circle of tents which surround the buildings containing the individual displays. In centrally located places are the old styles Indian tents bearing pictures of the history of the tribes. This gives the fair a conspicuous and distinctive character that only an Indian fair possesses.

Horse and pony races will be important features of the celebration; the awarding of prizes for grain and live stock will occupy an important place, but to the person who loves to see a nation unfold its past, the Indian dances, four different ones each evening, in which the best dancers are given prizes and the old Indian games, will probably hold forth the greatest interest. In the dances the individuals dance separately—each portraying his own history, his own deed, and symbolizing the significance of the name which he bears. There is much individuality in the dances, for no two are alike and yet all have the characteristic Indian style.

Supplying music for the dance will be the ten-ton players who must be experts to really produce music on their drum-like instruments. There will be singing of old Indian songs and the playing of Indian games—shinny, moccasin, and others—contests, and feasts of strength.

The head work and the porcupine work done by the women and the sewing of the school girls are all unusually fine. Many people come long distances to see the head work, for it is rapidly becoming one of the lost arts with the younger generation. Much of the value of the new dances and singin' gis due to the fact that it is the old Indians who direct it as they remember it from their own parents and themselves took part in it during the early days. Only a few of the Indians who were with Sitting Bull at the Custer Massacre are now alive. Thomas Frosted is president of the fair association, and Ben White, secretary, with a large staff of assistants.

Charges At Minot Tourist Camp May Be Eliminated

Minot, Aug. 21.—Action to eliminate charges at the Minot tourist camp, now levied if visitors remain in the camp for more than 24 hours, probably will be taken at a meeting of the Minot park board.

The opinion was freely expressed at the meeting yesterday that camping charges should be removed, at least for the remainder of this season, inasmuch as the camp has been widely advertised as a "free tourists' camp." No charge is made at present for tourists who remain in the camp for only one night, but the charge system was adopted when it was discovered that many persons were taking advantage of the camp and its numerous facilities, while working or canvassing the city for individual purposes.

The present price schedule in the camp applies only to automobiles and not to the number of persons in each machine. It follows:
First 24 hours, free.
Each 24 hours after the first, 50 cents for each car.

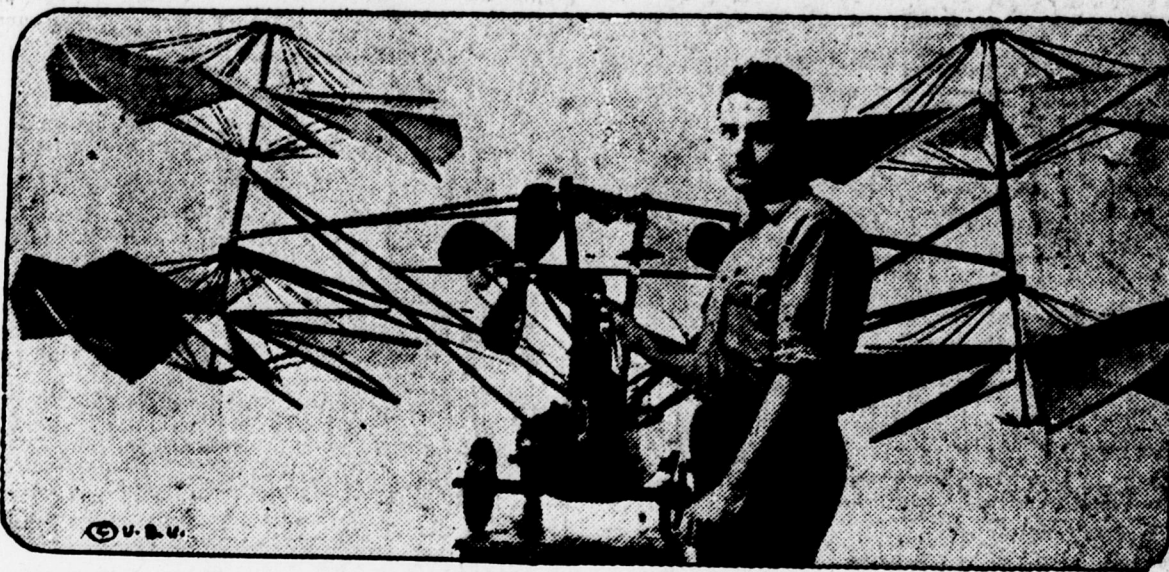

Reports Show City Babies Have Best Chance

Chicago, Aug. 21.—Some urban communities, in spite of the crowds, are healthier places for babies than many rural districts, according to the Infant Welfare Society of Chicago. A study of the mortality charts for cities and for the country shows that babies born in crowded cities have a better start in life than children in the country, the society reports. "This of course is not because of the crowds, but in spite of them," says the report, "and is a condition made possible through the education of the mothers even before the babies are born."

"It is owing to the fact that we find organizations such as the Infant Welfare Society fighting a battle against ignorance, which has cost a heavy toll in infant lives in cities such as Chicago, and that we find health departments carrying on the work of instruction, that in spite of tenements, crowds and hot waves, through education, lives are being saved each year. We must replace the old idea that the country is a healthier place with the idea that education may make almost any community a healthy place."

Prospects For Large Enrollment At Normal School

Valley City, Aug. 21.—The prospects for a large enrollment for the coming year at the Normal school are very good. All dormitory rooms have been reserved for the Fall Quarter and the inquiries that are coming in for catalogs and information of the College point to a large attendance.

One year ago the requirements for admission were four high school units but this year one must have ten high school units or the equivalent in order to be admitted. Another plan which will be started this fall quarter is that of extending the scope of the Training School. Last year the Training School consisted of kindergarten, six elementary grades, and a junior high school—the seventh, eighth, and ninth grades. With the opening of the quarter on September 25 a tenth grade will be added and it is the plan to add an eleventh grade one from now, and in the fall of 1925 it is planned to have a complete high school.

AGED MAN ALMOST BEATEN TO DEATH

Carpio, Aug. 21.—A. O. Hayden, a prosperous farmer, age 75, was nearly beaten to death by two masked men who visited his home a week ago Friday, and demanded that he tell them where he had secreted his money, which was said to be hidden in large sums about the house. After beating him to unconsciousness, the men searched the house, but found only a small sum, hidden in a stove.

The aged man was found the following day by a neighbor woman who summoned assistance, and Mr. Hayden was taken to a Minot hospital, where it is believed he will recover. He claims he recognized the voice of one of the bandits.

HIKERS VISIT IN KILLDEER

Killdeer, Aug. 21.—Misses Florence Burns and Anna Kotlan, of Minneapolis, Minn., were visiting here with Mrs. Henry Stein last week. They had hiked to Yellowstone park, and were on their return to their homes. In Minnesota and North Dakota, they said, the tourists were generous in offering them rides but in Montana, few people asked them to ride. They explained however, that this was probably due to the fact that placards are posted at intervals along the Montana highways, warning motorists against picking up people on the roads on account of the numerous hold-ups.

PLEADS NOT GUILTY

Fargo, Aug. 21.—But LeCompte, young Sioux Indian of the Standing Rock reservation, North Dakota, recently returned from South Dakota on a removal order, pleaded not guilty to introduction and sale of liquor on the reservation when he appeared before Judge Miller in federal court today. His bond to assure appearance at trial, was set at $500 and he is back in county jail while attempts are being made to secure this sum.

MAN'S TOWN

Glamorgan, Wales, Aug. 21.—This mining district has more men than women, statistics show. For the whole of England and Wales the proportion is 1,095 females to 1,000 males. Here it is 964 females to 1,000 males.

PIONEER IN FARGO DEAD

Served in Legislature and Was Active Politically

Fargo, Aug. 21.—Evan S. Tyler, resident of Fargo and North Dakota for the past 52 years, died yesterday morning at his room in the Metropolitan hotel. Mr. Tyler, one of the best known of the early pioneers, came here in territorial days, in 1873. He was a veteran of the Civil War, was born in Pennsylvania, and traveled extensively before coming to Fargo.

Mr. Tyler was one of the most prominent businessmen in the state. He was associated with the late N. K. Hubbard in the E. S. Tyler company, general merchandise, in Fargo from 1874 to 1882. In 1875 he and Mr. Hubbard built the old Headquarters hotel, which stood about where the Union Light Heat and Power company's plant now stands.

Mr. Tyler was a member of the first board of directors of the First National bank of Fargo, the oldest national bank in North Dakota. He was also active politically, serving two terms in the state legislature. His first term was in 1880-1881 and the second in 1895-1896. He almost became the first governor of North Dakota, losing the nomination to John Miller, who was elected, by only two or three votes. He was a state bank examiner for several years and for six or seven years was a national bank examiner, declared to have been one of the best.

ENVOYS LAY MEXICAN PLAN BEFORE HUGHES

Belief Expressed That Agreement with Southern Nation Is Near Completion

Washington, Aug. 21.—A plan designed as the ground work of a new structure of friendship and amity between the United States and Mexico was laid formally before the American government upon the return to Washington of the two commissioners appointed by President Harding to negotiate a rapprochement with the government of General Obregon. Details of the plan as worked out by Charles B. Warren and John A. Barton Payne with their Mexican colleagues on the international commission, will not be revealed for the present nor will responsible officials make any prediction as to the future course of the Washington administration until there has been a careful study of the entire project. Nevertheless, the steps already taken have aroused in official circles an apparent feeling of confidence that the long-continued breach between the two republics of the North American continent may be closed at last.

Report To Hughes

Mr. Warren and Mr. Payne called on Secretary Hughes immediately after their arrival from Mexico City and left on his desk their report of the negotiations and of the agreement reached between the American and Mexican commissioners for settlement of the many international claims which have accumulated since relations between the two capitals were broken. Later the commissioners were presented by Mr. Hughes to President Coolidge. They will remain in Washington for the present to confer at the state department and the White House over details of the Mexico City agreement and to give their advice as to the acceptance of the settlement plan by the United States.

BRING RARE SPECIMEN TO UNITED STATES

Exhibit Two Animals Never Before Seen in U. S. at Museum

Chicago, Aug. 21.—Two animals never before seen in the United States are new additions to the Field Museum family, brought here by Edmund Heller, who has returned from a year spent in the uncharted jungles of Peru and the upper reaches of the Amazon's tributaries. Mr. Heller traveled through thousands of miles of country inhabited by savage and hostile tribes in his search for strange specimens for the museum.

The two new prizes, according to scientists, are the dinomys, which he brought back alive and presented to the Lincoln Park zoo, and the capybara. The dinomys is a rodent something like a woodchuck, which since its capture has become so domesticated that he follows his master about like a dog, according to Mr. Heller. The species is said to be nearly extinct, because it moves so slowly that its more powerful enemies can overtake it. It lives in communities, and its principal protection, Mr. Heller believes, is in that it generally travels with members of its clan.

The capybara, a large rodent, is somewhat like the beaver, but larger. This animal is almost as rare as the dinomys, he said, and even the native see them but seldom. There are still many animals in the jungles of South America that never have been seen by scientists. He brought back with him 1,800 specimens to be mounted by the Museum, including jaguars, tigers, armadillos, anteaters and 15 kinds of monkeys.

Along the route of travel through the jungle, Mr. Heller said, he saw many savage tribes and fugitives of justice in more civilized lands who live without law in a semi-starved and half-sick condition. Virtually all these primitive peoples have some ailment, and they plead with the white man for quinine and other medicines. Medical missionaries and schools are unknown, he said. Mrs. Heller accompanied her husband on the trip. She superintended the cooking and the nursing of the sick, as she herself is an expert bacteriologist. She has spent many years of her life in the interior of South America and Africa. When Colonel Roosevelt went with him hunting trip, the scientist went with him to prepare the specimens taken for the Smithsonian Institution.

BANDITS LOOT MAIL TRAIN

(By the Associated Press.)

Oklahoma City, Aug. 21.—Five masked men looted the mail and express cars of the Missouri, Kansas and Nebraska passenger train No. 123 near Oklahoma City, shortly after midnight last night and escaped with about twenty registered packages after overpowering members of the train crew. No estimate of the loot was available today.

Patrols directed by the sheriff of Osage county were combing the country roads around Okfuskee in search of the bandits who fled in motor cars which accomplices had waiting for them. In all it is believed the band numbered a dozen although only five participated in the robbery. Passengers were not molested.

APPOINTED

Appointment by President Coolidge of C. Basom Slem as "secretary to the president," gives the administration, politicians say, the services of a man strong politically in the south. He comes from Virginia, and is noted as being effective in gathering southern votes in a convention.

HUNT BAND IN MARSHES NEAR DETROIT

One of Seven That Held Up Roadhouse Makes Confession to Police

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 21.—Search for six of the seven bandits who early Sunday morning held up patrons of the Allendale Inn near here and in making their escape shot and killed Patrolman Oscar Reinhardt of Monroe, Mich., today led to a group of small islands in Lake Erie off the main land near Monroe.

The seventh member of the band, Herman Sakoloff, arrested three miles south of Monroe several hours after the hold-up confessed last night according to the authorities.

Mr. Sakoloff has spent many years of his life in the interior of South America and Africa. When Colonel Roosevelt went with him hunting trip, the scientist went with him to prepare the specimens taken for the Smithsonian Institution.

SNAG CAUSED RIVER TRAGEDY

Bodies of Those Lost in Mississippi Are Recovered

St. Paul, Aug. 21.—A submerged log or snag was blamed for the sudden sinking of the launch in the Mississippi river near South St. Paul Sunday night in which ten persons lost their lives.

An all day search for the sunken craft was successful late yesterday afternoon, when rivermen who had patrolled the stream since early morning looking for the ill-fated craft or the bodies of its occupants, fastened onto the boat with grappling hooks and brought it ashore.

Examination revealed that the rudder, propeller and drive shaft had been ripped away and with them went the entire stern wall of the craft. Rivermen said that undoubtedly the deep riding stern of the launch had crashed into a half submerged log or snag.

Searchers up to early last night had been unsuccessful in their quest for the bodies of nine of the ten victims. The tenth body, that of Mrs. Pauline Martinelli, was recovered by a fisherman shortly after the 80 foot craft sank.

Hundreds of rivermen and fishermen, assisted by members of the St. Paul motor boat club were continuing the search in an attempt to find the bodies of the missing victims—three boys, two women and four men.
